DC4 CRASHES IN MIAMI STREET

Farm Bill . . .

Subsidy Ceiling Cut Out

Washington (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee Monday knocked out a controversial section of an agriculture appropriations bill to limit subsidy payments to $20,000 per farm.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla. chairman of the subcommittee, told UPI the provision, include in the House-passed version of the big farm money bill, was killed in closed session.

"We eliminated it," he said.

The bill carries more than $6 billion to run the Agriculture Department and the nation's farm programs through the new fiscal year starting July 1. The most controversial section was the $20,000 limitation.

The administration opposed to the limitation, contending it would wreck the cotton support program and cost the country more in the long run than it would save.

The House approved the limitation for the second year in a row. Last year, the Senate blocked the same move.

Demands for a limitation were generated by the fact that big corporate farmers receive huge sums — sometimes in excess of $1 million — for not planting crops.

Agricultural Secretary Clifford M. Hardin opposed the limitation, preferring to wait for a general revision of the basic farm program rather than writing a limitation in an appropriation bill.

The full Appropriations Committee is scheduled to consider the farm money bill Wednesday.

AUTO CRUSHED . . . on Miami, Fla., street by one of DC4's four engines.

Ten Killed; Many Hurt

. . . PLANE'S ENGINE AFIRE

Miami, Fla. (AP) — A DC4 cargo plane trying to circle back to Miami International Airport with an engine afire crashed in a busy, building-lined street here Monday, strewing flaming debris and wreckage along a four-block path.

Ten people were killed, including the four crew members and six people on the ground, said Miami police information officer Gaddy Rawls.

Another dozen were hurt and Rawls said reports of people who received minor injuries were coming in steadily.

Two of the victims were teen-aged boys, killed when the plane demolished their father's automobile body shop. Another killed in the shop was its foreman, James Joore, Rawls said.

He also listed a couple walking along the street among the victims. Another man was killed when he swerved his truck to avoid the plane and smashed into a utility pole.

Witnesses said the craft, a four-engine auto transport owned by Dominicana Air Lines, came down atop a three-story building about a half mile northeast of the airport.

It then skipped along the tops of several other buildings, dragging down telegraph poles and power lines and igniting gasoline spilled from overturned pumps at a service station.

The plane also spewed hundreds of gallons of flaming gasoline from its own tanks before it smashed into flying pieces in the middle of busy 36th Street.

One chunk of the plane slammed into a truck. Its driver apparently was killed. Other pieces were hurled into apartments and stores like shrapnel.

A paper-wrapped bumper, part of the plane's cargo, pierced the wall of an apartment.

Fourteen fire trucks sped to the disaster scene and "every available police emergency unit" in the city began aiding the injured and recovering bodies.

A Roman Catholic priest who arrived at the scene immediately after the first thunderous explosion quickly administered last rites to seven victims.

One building demolished was a two-story structure which housed the body shop of Charles Knapp. He survived the blast.

"Am I the only one that got out?" he asked a neighbor, Edward Burmester, as he staggered from the wreckage. His sons, Clyde, 17, and Clifford, 15, were listed among victims.

The twisted wreckage stopped near 36th Street and 33rd Ave., a scant two blocks south of the teeming Miami Beach-Airport Expressway. Thousands of onlookers soon jammed the area. Their automobiles filled the huge parking lot of the Miami Jai Alai Fronton, near the crash site.

Police cordoned off the area, covered the bodies in rubber shrouds and established an emergency command post at the scene.

"Wreckage is scattered along a four-block area. It looks as if every building for five blocks was damaged. I can't count all of the burned cars in the street and on the lot," a reporter said.

Israelis Hit Jordan Irrigation Project

© The New York Times

Jerusalem — Jordan's most important irrigation project, the $85-million Ghor Canal, was sabotaged early Monday by Israeli commandos.

The Israeli force crossed the Yarmuk River to blow up the diversion system, according to official Israeli sources. Neither side suffered any casualties, the Israelis said.

The action followed increased Arab guerrilla activity in the area and two messages of warning from the Israeli premier, Mrs. Golda Meir, to King Hussein of Jordan.

Mrs. Meir has repeatedly expressed the view that Israel's borders must remain quiet on both sides and that Arab harassment of Israeli border patrols and civilian settlements would draw an appropriate response.

The latest nightime commando action by Israeli units ended at 2:10 a.m. with an explosion that could be heard for miles in the Jordan Valley.

Within minutes of the detonation, Israeli soldiers wading across the Yarmuk on their way home noticed that the flow of water had increased, indicating that the diversion of the Yarmuk waters had been ended.

Completed five years ago after six years of construction, the 50-mile-long canal was intended to add an estimated $12 million to Jordan's economy.

It drew water from the Yarmuk River before it reached the Jordan River, which forms the Israel-Jordan border south of the Sea of Galilee, and served an estimated 60,000 Jordanians in the region.

Most of these Jordanians left the area, however, after a year and a half of daily exchanges between Israeli units and those of Arab guerrilla organizations and the Jordanian army.

A few hours after announcing the successful infiltration by their own forces Monday morning, Israeli authorities reported repulsing an Egyptian incursion on the Suez Canal.

The Israelis said three Egyptians had been killed and others wounded when an Egyptian force said to have numbered several dozen men sought to penetrate an Israeli position south of Qantara.

The Israelis said they suffered no losses in the brief but bitter fight. Officials here denied Egyptian claims that 18 Israelis had been killed and a tank, armored car and other equipment had been destroyed.

Changes In Construction Bill Proposed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Budget Committee Monday recommended a number of changes in its capital construction bill, including a degree of land acquisition flexibility for the Game, Forestation and Parks Commission.

Amendments approved by the committee will give the commission authority to acquire land during the coming biennium for eight specific projects.

The committee also recommended a reappropriation of $100,660 for land acquisition at Indian Caves.

Removal of the land acquisition prohibition for political subdivision land and water projects funded through the Game Commission budget was also recommended.

The committee added a $135,000 general fund appropriation to the University of Nebraska's recommended capital construction budget, and authorized $26,200 in general fund expenditures for land acquisition by the Game Commission.

Debate on the capital construction bill, LB1425, is scheduled to resume on the floor of the Legislature Tuesday.

The committee's strict prohibition against acquisition of new land by the commission during the coming biennium came under fire during the initial round of floor debate.

Proposals to add funds for construction of a life sciences building and or library improvements at the university are expected to trigger major floor battles Tuesday.

Allocation of an additional $135,000 reappropriation for remodeling and renovation of the Social Science Building in the university's downtown Lincoln campus budget necessitated the increase in general fund appropriations.

In order to add funds for the social science project thus meeting NU contractual commitments, reappropriated funds for a new Home Economics Building on the East Campus were reduced by a corresponding amount.

Thus, to fully fund the $2,240,000 home economics project, its appropriation of $1,090,000 in new money was boosted by $135,000.

A number of other university reappropriations figures were also revised at the institution's request. None of the changes represented basic alterations in approved NU projects.

In other action, the committee agreed to recommend the reappropriation of $64,000 for a National Guard armory at Alliance.

A total of $165,000 was reappropriated from the general fund in the Game Commission budget for 16 land and water projects being developed by local governmental subdivisions.

New Laboratory

The cash fund reappropriation for the Game Commission's proposed new laboratory building was hiked from $511,143 to $692,780 to reflect the bid price for construction.

Some $94,872, all but $26,200 of which will come from cash funds, was appropriated for land acquisition.

The specified projects include the Swedeburg-Ceresco Wayside Area, Pillar Lake, Bonny Brea Lake, Cornhusker Farms, Oregon Trail Wayside Area, Chadron State Park and tracts of land in Buffalo and Garden Counties.

Involved in those projects are an estimated 388 acres.

Suit Filed In Air Deaths

Chicago (AP)—A $2.5 million damage suit was filed Monday in behalf of the heirs of a Norfolk, Neb., couple killed March 16 in a plane crash in Venezuela.

The suit was filed in Circuit Court by the National Bank of Commerce and Trust and Savings Association of Lincoln.

Kenneth Nelson, 38, and his wife, Sharon, 39, were passengers on a DC9 Viasa Airlines plane that crashed on a flight from Carcas, Venezuela, to Miami, Fla.

The suit said the plane made an unscheduled stop at Maracaibo, Venezuela, and crashed shortly after takeoff. The suit said the plane was overloaded.

Named as defendants were Viasa Airlines and Douglas Aircraft Co., manufacturers of the craft.

Additional Land Eyed For State Parking Garage

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The State Building Commission Monday authorized the architects to proceed with final working drawings for the new State Office Building on the 15th Street mall north of the State Capitol.

However, the commission deferred decision on plans for a companion 450-car parking garage and called for an appraisal of the half-block site occupied by the Scottish Rite Temple building and parking lot.

Present plans would locate the parking garage on the north half of the block between M and L, 15th and 16th.

However, the commission authorized the City of Lincoln to obtain a professional appraisal of the Scottish Rite site with the possibility of acquiring the property.

If this property is acquired, the commission indicated the parking garage would be faced on the mall across from the state office building and entrances provided both from M and L.

The new seven-story State Office Building will occupy a city block bordered by the 15th Street mall and 14th, M and L.

Ellery Davis of Davis-Clark and Associates said the estimated $1.6 milion parking garage would have five levels — two below grade — and provide parking for 450 vehicles.

Structural provisions for another three levels providing parking for 285 more cars would be included in the plans, he said.

Architect Larry Enersen reviewed plans for the State Office Building, estimated to cost $12.4 million.

He outlined the principal departments occupying each floor:

First floor—Department of Administrative Services and post office.

Mall level (second floor) — Personnel offices, conference rooms and lobby.

Third floor—Department of Public Welfare and State Liquor Commission.

Fourth floor—Tax Commissioner.

Fifth floor—Department of Education.

Sixth floor—Department of Health.

Seventh floor—Department of Agriculture and other small departments to be assigned.

The basement area would house mechancial equipment and food service for the building.

In other action, former State Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City submitted his resignation from the commission.

Stryker said he has accepted a position as technical consultant with Ejura Farms Ghana Ltd. and will be out of the country for several months later this year.

PROTEST PLANS . . . explained by Maine.

Hershey Faces A Confrontation

By DAVE ZIMMERMAN
Star Staff Writer

Members of Lincoln's "early church" called upon the public to join them in a peaceful confrontation of National Selective Service Director Gen. Lewis B. Hershey when he arrives at the Lincoln Country Club Tuesday.

A co-founder of the new church, which he described as "an extension of the organized church into homes," said that "a lot of people in Lincoln have sons in the service and in Vietnam. Not many know what is really going on or of the 'rinky-dink harshness' of the service."

"We hope to actually confront Gen. Hershey and see what he has to say about this," said Bruce Maine, a spokesman for the church's small congregation.

Gen. Hershey is coming to Lincoln Tuesday to address a testimonial dinner for retiring State Selective Service Director Lt. Gen. Guy N. Henninger.

Maine said the proposed confrontation with Hershey will take place at 6 p.m. at the country club where the dinner for Lt. Gen. Henninger will be held.

In a verbal assault on military conscription, Maine said that Gen. Hershey heads what is "perhaps the most illegitimate branch of government today."

"As of April of this year, draft violations now rank third (behind auto theft and immigration infractions) in the standings on federal court criminal dockets," said Maine.

"As it stands today, before this year is ended nearly 5,000 young men will be prosecuted for refusing to cooperate with the draft."

Maine, 21, may be included in this number following a conviction last November for refusing induction on religious grounds. His case is scheduled for appeal next month in Denver.

In conjunction with the confrontation of Gen. Hershey, church members said a celebration of communion is scheduled.

The church, co-founded by Maine and Bob Lucy, recently celebrated its first communion at which 10 persons were reportedly present.

In a final statement, Maine said that "every precaution has been taken to place the communion and confrontation within the limits of the law."

"We hope all will be peaceful and orderly," he said.

Warren's Court Ends By Limiting Searches

World News

Washington (AP) — The Supreme Court concluded its Warren years Monday by restricting police searches and expanding the boundaries of the Bill of Rights.

The two rulings were announced as Earl Warren stepped down after 16 years as chief justice and turned the reins over to Warren E. Burger. They were typical of the Warren court's view of the Constitution and its safegurads for accused individuals.

The Fourth Amendment's command against unreasonable searches and seizures was cited as protecting citizens against sweeping searches of their homes when they are put put under arrest.

Binding On States

And the Fifth Amendment's protection against double jeopardy, being tried again after being acquitted, was made binding on the states.

Until now, police operating without a search warrant could, on arresting a man in his home, search the entire area under his "possession" or "control."

In practice, this meant searching his home and garage for evidence to be used against him at trial.

A 6-2 decision given by Justice Potter Stewart will change all that. The Fourth Amendment, Stewart said, limits searches without warrants to only the arrested man's "person and the area from within which he might have obtained either a weapon or something that could have been used as evidence against him."

The 6-2 double-jeopardy decision also is a major departure from long-standing legal precedence, though it will have less of a practical impact than the search ruling.

Since 1791 federal authorities have been restrained by the Fifth Amendment requirement that no person "be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life of limb."

But state authorities were not required to observe this guarantee. And in 1937 the court specifically said federal double-jeopardy standards apply to the states only when the defendant would face an "acute and shocking" hardship.

However, in the years since, largely through the influence of Justice Hugo L. Black, most of the Bill of Rights protections have been made binding on the states through the 14th Amendment.

'Only Inevitable'

Speaking of double jeopardy, Justice Thurgood Marshall said for the court: "We today only recognize the inevitable."

The effect will be limited because states generally have shied away from retrying a man who has been acquitted once.

The rulings were the last by the court under Warren's leadership. He swore in Burger as his successor and ended 52 years of government service with the conclusion of the 1968-69 term of the court.

President Nixon was on hand and in a departure from precedent for a president spoke to the court.

Standing at the lawyer's lectern dressed in a dark blue cutaway coat. he extolled Warren as "a symbol of fairness, integrity and dignity.

—Ruled 5 to 3 that the protection against double jeopardy still leaves convicts who win new trials open to stiffer sentences the second time. However, the ruling specified that time served as a result of the first conviction must come off the second sentence.

The court's windup rulings and actions also included:

—Granting a hearing to a group of Connecticut women on relief who cannot seek divorces because they are unable to pay court costs and fees.

—Agreement to hear an appeal by data-processing companies that national banks are illegally invading their domain.

—Clearance for a $10-million-a-month reduction in welfare assistance to families in New York state.

Abernathy Fasts In Charleston Jail

Charleston, S.C. (AP) — Marchers sympathetic to Charleston hospital strikers chanted black power slogans and cursed police Monday night as civil rights leader Ralph David Abernathy continued his two-day fast in jail.

About 200 young Negroes were allowed to parade from a church to a housing project two blocks away and back to the church as policemen cruised nearby in squad cars. On the return trip a police car and a newsman's car were pelted with stones but no one was injured.

The marchers dispersed peacefully at the church.

Earlier in the day, the Rev. Mr. Abernathy had issued a call for nonviolence as strikers and supporters sharply escalated street demonstrations.

As the wife of the head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference told of his fast at a news conference, police arrested about 40 demonstrators after 150 of them blocked traffic at a crowded downtown intersection.

They were charged with disturbing the peace.

Three hours later about 25 teen-aged demonstrators paraded down a business district sidewalk but scattered before police arrived.

Wife Concerned

Abernathy's wife said he began his hunger strike Sunday against her wishes. "I am greatly concerned about his health," she said. She added he suffers from a peptic ulcer condition. His jailer confirmed that Abernathy has not eaten since late Saturday.

Abernathy, arrested with three others Friday night on a charge of inciting to riot, is confined in the county jail. The four, including a SCLC aide, Hosea Williams, are held in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

The Rev. Andrew Young, SCLC vice president, said lawyers for the civil rights group will seek "total relief" for the four in a closed hearing in Greenville, S.C., Tuesday before U.S. District Judge. Robert Martin.

Storms Bring Death To 7

By The Associated Press

Turbulent summer storms threatened to unleash more tornadoes and torrential downpours Monday in the nation's midsection, already battered by violent storms.

Tennessee state police reported one person drowned and 11 missing in flash floods that roared through the resort village of Red Boiling Springs, in the foothills of the Cumberland Mountains.

A peaceful mountain creek fed by a cloudburst overflowed its banks and transformed the community of 900 population into a gigantic lake. The mayor said every business in town was destroyed.

The heavy downpours soaked an eight-county area in southern Kentucky and northern middle Tennessee. The flash flooding was blamed for the death of a Gallatin, Tenn., woman found trapped in her car on a rural road.

Officials began to sift through the debris of twisters that swept through the Missouri lead-mining belt southwest of St. Louis Sunday night and left six persons dead and more than 30 injured.

Cleanup operations also were underway in central Kansas, where other tornadoes struck early Sunday, injuring about 100 persons and causing damage estimated at more than $10 million.

Reds Pressing Ben Het Camp

Saigon (AP) — Enemy gunners hit again overnight at the Ben Het Special Forces camp in South Vietnam's central highlands, keeping up the daily barrages that have raked the post since early May U.S. headquarters said Tuesday.

The latest shelling went on after a ground attack was turned back Monday against a U.S. artillery unit based in the Special Forces camp.

The artillerymen lowered their guns to point blank level to turn back the assault and spokesmen said Tuesday that 14 enemy were killed in the action "all at the edge of the camp."

Supported From Air

Helicopter gunships supported the base during the attack. The Americans there lost one man killed and six wounded, spokesmen said, while casualties among the civilian irregulars were "light."

The camp is only six miles from the border in an area where Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam join.

It is near Dak To, where South Vietnamese army forces have been tangling for weeks with North Vietnamese army regulars. Regular American ground forces have been pulled back from the Dak To region and some observers have seen the campaign there as the first major test for the South Vietnamese army against North Vietnamese units. There are, however, U.S. support units in the area and the Vietnamese government forces also are getting strong American air backing.

Two of the five U.S. Air Force B52 missions, flown overnight were in the Dak To area, headquarters said, with the big bombers hitting at "troop concentrations," base camps, bunker complexes and weapons positions."

American headquarters reported Monday that the Communist command was believed to have sent 10,000 troops into a ring around the provincial capital of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, and that U.S. air and ground power moved to meet the threat of an attack.

U.S. strategists said an attack could come within the next week and that the enemy's aim could be to strengthen the hand of the new Communist-backed provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam.

Train Crash Hurts 75

New York (AP) — A Long Island Railroad train apparently entered Pennsylvania Station on a wrong track and then backed up into another train, injuring 75 passengers, a railroad spokesman said.

Service out of the railroad's Manhattan terminal was virtually knocked out during the evening rush period, stranding tens of thousands of homeward-bound commuters.

Compounding the tieup was an unrelated accident in Queens, where a short circuit halted another LIRR train. Some passengers panicked and jumped to the tracks. Five reportedly were injured.

Many of the Penn Station victims were removed in wheel chairs, brought to scene by hospital ambulances. Some passengers were bleeding from the head. Others complained of back and neck injuries.

Passengers in both trains were preparing to get off at Penn Station. The crash sent them spinning off their feet into partitions or seats or onto the floor.

August Draft Call Higher Although Strength To Dip

Washington (AP) — The Army's over-all strength will be cut by about 13,000 troops under the Nixon administration's initial 25,000-man reduction of U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

The dip is a step in plans to scale down gradually the American military organization worldwide, with further reductions in forces expected in coming months.

The Pentagon reported the Army decline Monday at the same time it announced a higher draft call of 29,500 for August, up 7,200 from the planned July draft.

The Pentagon said the August manpower request is higher than "because total replacement needs are higher even after allowing for the reduction" in Vietnam.

Of the 25,000 American servicemen due to come out of Vietnam beginning next month, 15,000 are Army.

All the August inductees will go into the Army. Previous draft calls this year ranged as high as 33,700 in February and as low as 22,300 in July.

State Call 239

The Nebraska draft call for August is 239 men, according to Col. E. G. Liggett of the Nebraska Selective Service Bureau.

This figure is 64 higher than July — 175 — which had the lowest draft call of the year.

U.S. To Attempt To Block Merger Of ITT, Hartford

©The New York Times

Washington — The Justice Department announced Monday that it would file suit in an attempt to block the proposed merger of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

ITT immediately announced that it intended to "move forward with the merger," assuming the stockholders of the two companies approve it.

ITT is the eleventh largest U.S. industrial concern in terms of sales and has assets of $4 billion. Hartford is the sixth largest property and liability insurance company, with assets of nearly $2 billion.

Tokyo (UPI) — An earth quake described as fairly strong rocked parts of Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido.

Goodyear Raises Prices Of Tires

©The New York Times

New York — The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. announced Monday it would increase prices for tires and tubes by 1.5% to 5%, effective July 1. Most passenger car tire prices will increase by about three per cent.

While other major producers were studying the move, Uniroyal, Inc., said it had told its tire dealers to expect increases by as much as five per cent before the end of the month.

Apollo Plans Move Smoothly

Cape Kennedy (UPI) — Technicians neared the end of the Apollo 11 moonship fueling Monday and Launch Operations Manager Paul C. Donnelly said everything was proceeding smoothly for a July 16 start of man's first lunar landing mission.

"We're really sitting pretty," Donnelly said in an interview.

The tedious spacecraft fueling operation was running almost a day behind schedule and that delayed the start of a crucial week-long countdown rehearsal 24 hours to midnight Thursday.

Such fueling delays are not uncommon and Donnelly said there are several days leeway in the preparation timetable to cope with problems and still get Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin off on time.

The astronauts devoted most of Monday to rehearsing lunar flight operations in two spacecraft trainers and more of the same was on the agenda of the rest of the week.

The loading of hard-to-handle propellants into the three Apollo 11 spacecraft modules and into the orbital control system of the Saturn 5 rocket's top stage began last Wednesday and was to have been completed by early Monday.

Technicians plan to pump 209,000 gallons of high grade kerosene into the massive first stage Tuesday.

Cool Temps Delay Crops

. . . 40% Wheat Has Turned Color

Cool temperatures throughout Nebraska for the second week in a row have slowed plant progress of most crops, according to the State-Federal Bureau of Agriculture Statistics in its weekly crop-weather report.

About 40% of the wheat has turned color with normal at 50%, the report revealed.

"Freeze damage to wheat in the northern Panhandle is becoming apparent, causing some abandonment and cutting for hay," the crop experts said. "Some low lying fields of corn and dry beans in the west received frost damage, and most of the acreage is being replanted to beans.

"Elsewhere, the condition of row crops is variable with insects, dry top soils, and weeds causing problems. Army worms and cutworms have been noted over the state, but most greenbug infestation of sorghums has been in the southeast."

Other comments:

Top soils are dry in portions of the west, north, northeast and central. Significant amounts of precipitation locally over the weekend improved conditions in some of the northeastern areas.

Major field activities have been cultivating, fertilizing, spraying, haying and summer tillage. Most of the sugar beet thinning has been completed. Alfalfa first crop is 90% harvested and second cuttings have started.

Livestock condition was generally good and adequate feed supplies exist in most areas.

Moisture received throughout the state during the past week included:

Youngest Participants Place 2nd In Beatrice Canoe Meet

By DOUG EVANS
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Two modern-day Huck Finns participated in the annual Homestead Canoe Race here.

Jeff and Scott Story of Omaha were the two youngest participants in the 10-mile race down the Blue River. Although the two boys are only 8 and 10 years old, they managed to win second prize in their division. In a race in which many adults reached the finish line in a state of near total exhaustion, it was more than just a little refreshing to see the two adventurers cross the line weak but willing.

At one point, it appeared as if they might not be able to complete the course, and race officials ordered watchers on the river to try to keep them in sight in case they gave out or got in trouble. But the game youngsters managed to keep going.

In the women's division, Margie Engelkemeier, and Judy Hutchinson finished first, despite the fact Mrs. Engelkemier had a baby recently.

In other events, Mike Wright and Arnold Miller of Lincoln finished first in the men-over-17 fiberglass division with a time of one hour, 23 minutes, 30 seconds—best time of the day.

Dale and Richard Greer of Lincoln finished first in the men-over-17 aluminum division with a time of one hour, 32 minutes, 36 seconds.

Rita Bositjevac and Thomas Baker won the mixed division with a time of one hour, 30 minutes, 7 seconds in the closest race of the day.

Robert Bositjevac and Ken Prosbski won the boys-under-16 division with a time of one hour, 29 minutes, 44 seconds.

Gerald and Patty Husted, second-place finishers in the mixed division with a time of one hour, 30 minutes, 12 seconds, also received the trophy for coming farthest to participate in the race. They are from Des Moines, Iowa.

Farm, Ranch Operators NU Short Course Discontinued

Nebraska News

The Farm and Ranch Operators Short Course — offered by the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture and Home Economics and given during the winter months since 1961 — has been discontinued, at least in its present form.

The traditional two eight-week terms will not be offered during the winter of 1969-70.

According to Robert Mason, coordinator of Agricultural College short courses and conferences, the decision to discontinue the Farm and Ranch Operators Short Course was made because of small enrollment.

"The course has been well received over the years and has served its intended purpose well," Mason said. "However," he added, "in recent years a combination of factors has caused insufficient enrollment to maintain it on a self-supporting basis.

"Two of these factors are:

"1. The military draft taking young men just out of high school to whom the short course is most appealing and

"2. The short course being too long to permit veterans or young married farmers and ranchers to be away from their homes and operations, in spite of the fact that the short course is presently of much interest and value to this group of young men"

Inasmuch as the short course must be largely self-supporting, a continuation of the program would be possible only by increasing the fees or increasing enrollment, he said. "Efforts toward the latter have not been successful and it was felt that the fees should not be increased further," Mason said.

Selected, specialized short courses of one or two weeks duration, like those in crops and soils and animal science offered previously, will continue to be offered on demand.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

As of today, people will expect things on the U.S. Supreme Court to start changing. Yesterday, Chief Justice Earl Warren stepped down and Warren Burger was sworn in as chief justice.

But as some observers have noted, the change that people expect may or may not come. Most likely, no great change will be seen simply because Burger, despite the high office which he now holds, is still only one man.

The role of chief justice was described by one person in a news story as the first among equals. This was meant to explain that the chief justice really has very little more influence than any other justice.

Thus, the only way that Burger might significantly change things would be if he turned out to be an extraordinarily qualified individual with great leadership capacity. But this is not the mold in which observers place him.

Rather, they look at him as an honest and capable judge with no more leadership than many men might have. If this is true, the change we will see will be no more than that which can be wrought by one man alone.

This would be the change seen in substituting for the liberal Warren vote on the bench the more conservative vote of Burger. But even this is not a certainty because no one knows for sure just what kind of political hue the Burger vote will have. His past record puts him pretty well in the middle of the road when it comes to political philosophy.

What is most surprising about all of this change in the membership on the court is the degree of politics involved. We wonder if the American people are not looking at the Supreme Court more as a legislative rather than a judicial branch of government and if this is really what they want.

When it comes to the judiciary, many of the things that might apply to other levels of government must be tossed out the window. Theoretically, the question of a man's political philosophy should not be a part of any consideration in the appointment of a justice, even though we know this is different in practice.

It is recognized that a man must have convictions but the important thing for a judge is that he not allow himself to be guided by any concepts of political doctrine or social equality or justice.

The task a judge faces is to determine the law, not its righteousness. It is a thin line but one that needs to be recognized if we are to have the public appreciation for our courts that is essential.

The law, of course, is often subject to interpretation, particularly by the Supreme Court and at this point the thin line of which we spoke becomes even thinner.

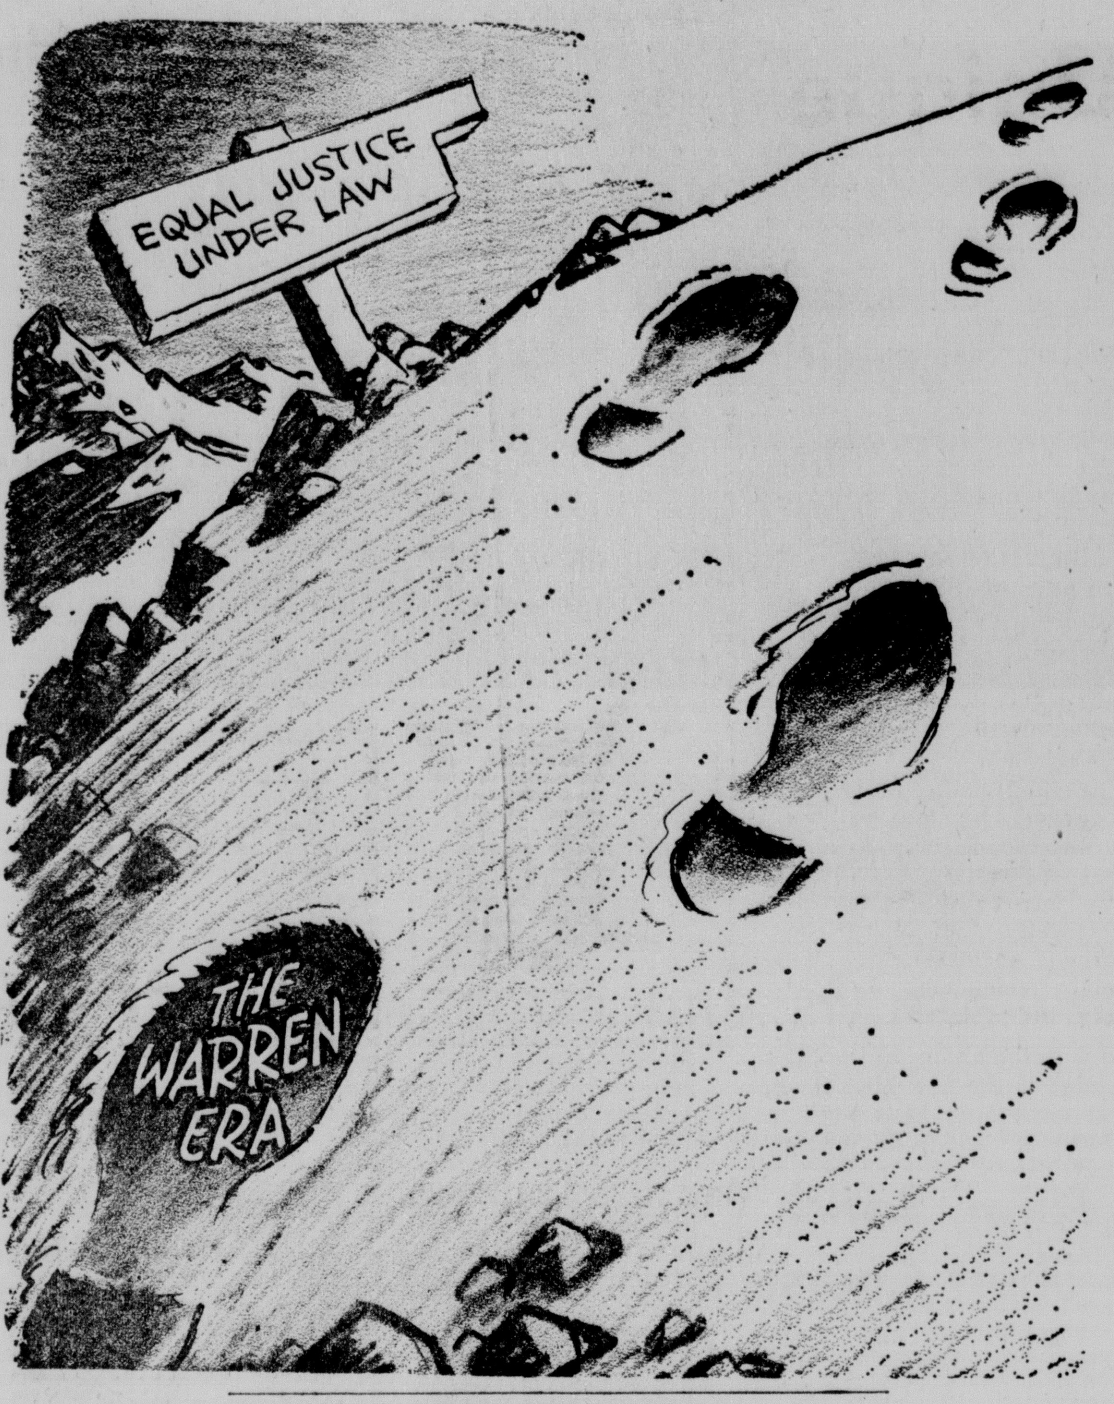
If people really want law and order, then it is important for them to recognize the distinctions that exist between the judiciary and the legislative or administrative. It is important that people seek, not a court which will give them what they want, but a body of law they want.

Currently, we seem to have turned things around. We want a U.S. Supreme Court that will put criminals behind bars. Criminals should be behind bars but they should be there as a result of our laws, not because of the attitude of the court.

Every right you have and every freedom you enjoy is the product of law, either in the national and state constitutions or the federal and state statutes. The job of the courts is to see to it that your rights and freedoms are not abridged.

There are awesome risks in turning things around and looking to the courts for the guarantees that you should have in law. The day we do this, we have destroyed the democratic form of government with which we now are blessed.

Giant Steps



Rocky Can Help

New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller finished up the third portion of his information-gathering mission to Latin America over the weekend with the declaration that the trips to Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay were the turning points and that Latin Americans are now evidencing a more sympathetic attitude and response toward what he is trying to do for President Nixon in the formulation of a new United States policy regarding its southern neighbors.

Rockefeller appeared buoyed for the last leg of his mission which will begin next week and will include Argentina, Haiti, the Dominican Republic and the three smaller English-speaking nations, Jamaica, Barbados and Guyana.

The governor apparently had his spirits lifted because of frank and open interviews with the Latin American press and local politicians, business leaders, teachers, youth groups and farmers. He told them he will attempt to persuade the President and the U.S. Congress to adopt a basic policy which will include the objectives of the Kennedy-inspired Alliance For Progress which was conceived in cooperative endeavor but never fully implemented.

But Rockefeller should remember when he reports his recommendations to the President that although he was treated more kindly by the leadership and the Latin press this time, there were still the domestic disturbances that marked his earlier tours and which forced a switch of the site of his meetings in Uruguay. And he still has not been invited back to Peru, Chile and Venezuela, where turmoil earlier in the mouth caused his visits to be cancelled.

If he is to be the most helpful to the President in helping to form a new policy, Rockefeller is going to have to be extremely critical of the regimes, such as that in Brazil, and the leaders with whom he found the most accommodation but who are the most unpopular in Latin America.

Consumers Rolling Along

American consumers are doing their share of complaining but continue their old buying habits in most areas. While government figures, discussed in a recent issue of Business Week magazine, show only a modest gain in May retail sales compared to a year ago, many retailers report good business.

One retailer, in autos, reports that money isn't bothering anyone. The same people, he said, are interested in a Riviera and Special and they are $2,000 apart. Another spokesman, in banking, says that high prices and high interest rates are not deterring anyone.

There are isolated reports of a tightening up here and there but the overall picture is one of a some what hostile consumer but one who, nevertheless, is spending his money. Actually, most of them are just further extending their credit.

The article might produce two conclusions, right or wrong. One, the American people have opted for an unprecedented affluence, characterized by the acquisition of untold luxury items. Two, the average buyer is not yet convinced that inflation is being brought under control.

One other possibility is that people like inflation. It is a sort of dream world in which you buy something today and pay for it with cheap dollars you earn tomorrow. But dreams always come to an end and those who believe that they can live the inflation dream forever are fooling themselves.

Jail Fare

Lincoln, Neb.

Has "Against Softness" ever been in jail in Lincoln. I have not, nor any of my family, but I know people who have and they certainly didn't enjoy any of it, particularly the food situation.

Let us suppose that "Against Softness" were picked up and arrested some Saturday night. He protests that he is innocent but to no avail. He is taken to jail, booked and placed in a cell. We will further suppose that he has never needed a lawyer so doesn't have one and that he has about three dollars in his wallet. His bail is set at $200. He is told that he will have a hearing on Monday at 11:00 a.m. He is upset, decides he will not use even that one phone call to call his family and will stay in jail until the hearing.

Remember, he is an accused person. He is not under our system supposed to be called or treated like a guilty person. Now, according to my sources, he would be given coffee, cooked cereal and maybe a piece of bread at 7:00 a.m. on Sunday. He is not given a noon meal, but goes from 7:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m., when he is given one or two sandwiches. He will receive cereal again on Monday at 7:00 a.m.

This accused person, who may be innocent, is never given a noon meal in the Lincoln jail as long as he is being held for his hearing. Those persons who have been sentenced and are serving time in the jail do get three meals a day.

I personally know a young man, a teenager of 18, who was broke, out of work, afraid to contact his parents and who had no friends who could raise bail money. He was arrested on a Saturday night and had his hearing the following Thursday. During that time he received meals only at 7:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. and they were reported to be small meals.

I consider this procedure to constitute cruel and inhumane treatment of a prisoner and charge that such a procedure is a violation of the prisoner's civil rights because his guilt has not been established. I believe in obeying the law, I believe in punishment for those who break it. I also believe in three simple, nourishing meals a day for everyone, guilty or innocent, in jail or out.

Crime, Punishment

Lincoln, Neb.

There was a letter entitled "The Kid Gloves" in the Sept. 21 Star.

A mansion for a jail! Has the letter-writer ever visited a jail or prison?

Odd-balls who run the government? No, the odd-balls are we for allowing punitive justice to exist in the 20th Century. This is not the 17th or 18th or 19th Century.

Better meals — is this punishment? Most crimes are non-violent and why must punishment be physical?

Encourage pals to do same? What else is there to talk about while imprisoned other than the errors made and devising more elaborate plans for future crimes, not to mention the vengeance which imprisonment evokes.

One jail for all types of criminals? What constitutes a criminal? Is he a type? Anyone is innocent until proven guilty. One who is being held may very well be innocent.

Too much pity for the criminals? They suffer from an illness the same as those who occupy our mental hospitals. Who amoung us has ever offered a helping hand to an ex-con who is attempting to make good? Well, not many. We should praise our law-enforcement officers, parole and probation officers, not condemn them.

Punishment certainly is not the answer. We have had prisons and capital punishment since the dawn of time, and we still have crime.

The battle to be waged belongs to all of us.

FOR SOFTNESS (NO)
FOR UNDERSTANDING (YES)

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I and several friends are bothered with bursitis. I guess there's no cure, but what do we do for relief? I rub on liniment and take aspirin.—Mrs. G.S.M.

Dear Doctor: I was told I have bursitis in my knee. When I kneel or put pressure on it, it swells to the size of a golf ball. I have been treating it with heat, but the doctor said he would give me cortisone shots or remove it surgically. Just what are the dangers of cortisone shots?—Mrs. D.A.L.

Dear Doctor: Are ultrasound treatments of any value for bursitis?—R.R.

Cure bursitis: Well, yes and no. There are plenty of folks who used to have bursitis and are not bothered with it now. There are others who don't understand the nature of bursitis, so they keep getting themselves in trouble with it.

A bursa is a tiny sac, containing a small amount of fluid, and it acts as a cushion where tendons ride over bony surfaces.

When irritated by too much pressure, or too much strain on a joint, the bursa becomes inflamed and sore, and the fluid in the sac increases. And that's bursitis — commonest in the knee, elbow ("tennis elbow"), shoulder, and hip.

Give that tender bursa, or sac, some rest and time to throw off the inflammation, and after that avoid pressure on it or too much strain, and you have a good chance of keeping the bursa calm and comfortable. But, since it has been damaged, you are asking for trouble if you think you don't have to baby it a bit.

What to do about bursitis? Rest is the first rule. You get nowhere by trying to "work out the soreness." But usually acute bursitis is painful enough to discourage people from that.

Heat helps. A wet compress, kept hot with a hot water bottle or an insulated electric pad is highly effective.

Drugs with anti-inflammatory properties as well as pain control are more effective than aspirin. Your doctor can prescribe such medications.

Other methods your doctor may use include:

Injection of some form of cortisone. This is harmless, and quite a different matter from taking it over a long period. It also is highly effective, relieving pain and giving the swollen bursa time to recover. More than one injection may be necessary.

Many times a hollow needle is used to withdraw excess fluid from the bursa. But in some severe cases, surgery may be required.

Ultrasound also is effective, but in actuality it is just a means of introducing heat into the deep tissues, which is created by energy in the form of rapid vibrations.

But after the doctor has done his work, do your part as a patient. If the trouble is in the knee, kneel on a cushion. If in the shoulder or arm, avoid too much strain.

While rest is essential in an acute stage, motion — but not heavy strain or pressure — is required as pain subsides, to prevent formation of adhesions.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can I do to cure gastric ulcers in the stomach. I have had many X-rays but suffer very much a couple of hours after I eat.—A.W.

X-rays would be to diagnose your trouble, not to cure it. Gastric (stomach) ulcers are, like duodenal ulcers, one form of peptic ulcers.

☆ ☆ ☆

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it advisable for a healthy 19-year-old boy to donate blood? My son has requested my permission. Would it lower his resistance to infection? He is living in a college dorm and exposed to more than a normal share of infections.—R.M.

No, it won't impair his resistance to infections. Tell him to go ahead. Parental permission is required for donors who are 18 to 20 years old.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Thosteson uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Johnson Maintains Unexpected Silence

WASHINGTON — Nearly six months have gone by since he stepped off the center of the stage, and not a word has come from one of the most articulate and volatile men ever to occupy the White House.

Opportunities galore could have enticed Lyndon Baines Johnson—the Fortas affair, the ballooning controversy over the huge defense budget inherited by the Nixon administration, assaults on the Johnson record in the Vietnam war. Yet the silence on the banks of the Pedernales has been unbroken. Not a statement, not an interview, no television talk, has come from one who for more than four years was front and center on the world stage.

This does not mean that the former President is rocking quietly in that rocking chair on the front porch of the ranch house. If he had no other link with events, the close ties the Nixon White House is maintaining with the former President would keep him ahead of the news. Nixon has given the most careful instruction that his predecessor is to be informed in advance of every important foreign-policy move. And the President himself has been twice on the phone with the silent Texan.

This happened before the meeting at Midway when the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops was in the planning stage. Johnson was alerted to the conference with South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu and the prospective move intended to start the de-escalation of the war.

The linkage between the President and his predecessor has a recent precedent. When Johnson was in a bind on a security-foreign policy issue in need of at least a show of nonpartisan support, he turned to the late Dwight D. Eisenhower, whose public popularity as military leader and statesman gave his words extraordinary weight. Eisenhower rarely if ever let President Johnson down when there was any question of the national interest.

A simiar demonstration of unity is contemplated by the White House as a showdown nears on the closely contested antiballistic-missile issue. A Johnson statement or, better still, a joint Nixon-Johnson declaration that the ABM is essential to national security would be helpful with Senate waverers.

The word from the ranch is that no such statement is contemplated and that, so far as anyone in the immediate vicinity can tell, the former President has every intention of preserving his silence.

Analysis Of Achievement Of Warren Career As Outstanding Chief Justice Of High Court

(Note: Mr. Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to one of his youngest grandsons, Dan Tyler Abell.)

Dear Danny:

A very great man has just retired from the Supreme Court. He is also a very much criticized man. But when you grow older, you will find that the greater a man is, the more he is criticized.

You are now in the Fourth Grade. And by the time you are in college, Earl Warren will be regarded as a man who molded America as much as any of our great presidents.

Though he handed down hundreds of important decisions, I think the two which molded America most were, first, the school desegregation decision; and, second, the one-man, one-vote decision which gave a break to our long neglected cities.

In your history book you will learn how for 100 years Negroes had not been getting a fair break in this country. This is why the school desegregation decision is so important. For if Negroes can get the same education as white men, eventually they can be able to take their place economically alongside of white men. Of course, we're now in the throes of much turbulent readjustment, but turbulance always comes with readjustment, and we'll get over this in time.

The other problem which Chief Justice Warren tried to resolve grew out of the fact that this country has become largely urban, whereas it used to be rural. As people moved to the big cities and the suburbs, they did not have equal rights in the state legislatures, which had long been stacked in favor of rural areas. So the Chief Justice, in a very bold and sweeping opinion, readjusted the balance of voting strength in this country.

He did it just in time, for the big cities had already started to boil over from lack of improvements, lack of money, and neglect.

Another great quality of Earl Warren's was that he didn't duck tough issues. One of the last decisions he handed down was one which he could have ducked, namely that of Adam Clayton Powell. Powell is a Negro congressman who had misbehaved rather flagrantly and who was barred from taking his seat in Congress when elected by his own people.

The Chief Justice knew it would infuriate Congress if he told them they were wrong in refusing to seat Powell. There is nothing congressmen hate more than being told they are wrong — especially a white Congress regarding a Negro.

Nevertheless, the Constitution was quite clear that only the people, not the Congress, have the right to decide whom they will send to Washington.

Another quality about Warren is that he has refused to sit in isolated legal splendor, but has kept in touch with the world.

He has traveled to Bolivia, the most out-of-the-way country of South America; to Ecuador, which is right on top of the equator; and to Colombia; also to the communist countries of Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia and Russia.

He even traveled with me through Montenegro to the edge of the Albanian border, where, after World War I, I worked with a Quaker reconstruction unit. It was very hard traveling over very high mountains, and we had to get up about 5 o'clock every morning. But not once did he complain.

And despite all the dull, dry legal papers he has had to read during his 16 years on the court, the Chief always kept in touch with the sports world. "I read the sports pages first," he once told me, "because they record men's achievements. Then I look at the first page because it records men's failures."

Once after dinner on the mid-Pacific island of Maui, your grandmother asked Mr. Warren about a certain crucial period of his life when he was running for vice president in 1948 with Gov. Tom Dewey of New York.

"If you had won and been elected vice president," she asked, "would you be the same Earl Warren you are today?"

"No, I don't suppose I would," he replied. "I expect I would have been just another member of The Establishment."

That remark illustrates how history is made. If Gov. Dewey had not lost that election to President Truman — and it was a very close election, influenced by such small things as a railroad engineer who backed his train at the wrong time — we would not have had a very strong man molding our history for the last 16 years. As he retires, the critics will be delighted. But I predict the history books when you are in college will describe Earl Warren as one of the truly great men of our day.

Love,
Your Grandfather

A MILLION DEATHS LATER'...

Biafra Could Emerge As Unique

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Lloyd arrison, former senior correspondent in Africa for the ew York Times, has made a umber of visits to Biafra, here more than a million ersons have died in two ears. This is the second of x articles.)

©The New York Times

By LLOYD GARRISON

Owerri, Biafra — If Biafra ils, it's cause will be iscredited and its ruler, ghtly or wrongly, will be ccorded the lion's share of e blame for leading his eople into death and defeat; frica has never taken kindly failures, and its political ndscape is littered with netime heroes who are now as-beens. (Whatever hapened to Kwame Nkrumah? r the legend of Patrice umumba? Or, for that mat r, Moise Tshombe?)

But if, by some miracle, iafra and Lt. Col. dumegwu Ojukwu survive oth could' emerge as omething unique in Africa; a ation and leader conceived violence, hardened in war, nited in suffering.

While other African states have gained their independence through a gratuitous stroke of the colonial master's pen, Biafra, whatever becomes of it, has dared to fight and die for its freedom. In victory, history could well enshrine Biafra as the first truly black African republic, with Ojukwu its most prominent symbol.

Startling Transformation

By mere survival, Biafra and Ojukwu have already achieved this status in a variety of ways. Each time I have returned to Biafra after three or four months I have been startled by the transformation of Biafran attitudes and the fabric of life.

The most dramatic change has taken place in the last few weeks, since the fall of Umuahia, which had served as Biafra's provisional capital for more than a year.

In many ways, Umuahia was a symbol of the old order. All the government ministries were entrenched in solid, bureaucratic buildings. The telephones worked. There was electricity and running water. Civil servants lived in the spacious houses which tradition bestowed upon them.

Bars, Parties

Although a small town, Umuahia had a rhythm of its own. There were plenty of bars to retire to after work; there were Saturday-night parties and dances in government officials' homes. Aside from frequent bombing, life was relatively pleasant and the war remote.

With Umuahia's forced evacuation, Ojukwu put into action "Operation Bush," a long-cherished plan to bring the government down to the level of the average man. Today, the government is totally decentralized — spread out in secret bush locations miles apart.

Telephone lines linking the ministries and Ojukwu's headquarters have yet to be strung up. Efficiency has inevitably suffered, but Ojukwu's goal has been achieved. Commissioners and their high-ranking deputies are living and working in conditions they would have dismissed as not only primitive but thoroughly beneath their dignity in prewar Nigeria.

What little food there is must be bought from local farmers, who are delighted with their new neighbors. Water is drawn from a nearby well. Work at night is by kerosene lamp. Surprisingly, the shift has been taken with practically no grumbling.

Discussion Increases

Despite preoccupation with the war effort, there is mounting discussion in the ministries and elsewhere about what kind of society Biafrans want to build after the war.

"In effect," noted a 32-year-old lawyer, Guy Ikokwu, "we will be starting with a completely clean slate. Right now, we're entirely on our own — no foreign advisers, no foreign businessmen, no foreign technicians and no foreign-aid programs.

"We'll need help, after the fighting, of course. But on our own terms. Our entire relationship with the white world will be reshaped according to our needs. Even foreign businesses which were here before the war, like the oil companies will have to renegotiate their status.

'Close To The Land'

"As for the government," he continued, "it's going to stay a lot as it is today. Close to the land, without frills and prerequisites. The people won't permit a return to the old regimen.

"Personaliy — and I know many who agree — I expect Ojukwu to be given a mandate to govern for up to five years. Reconstruction and fighting a war are very much the same thing. We can't afford elections and political squabbling and tribal divisions to surface, with every region and every clan demanding a piece of the same old political pie.

"Ojukwa is Biafra. He has no ax to grind, no old political scores to settle. He's above politics, above tribalism, above petty ambition.

"Only Ojukwa can hold us together and impose the kind of sacrifices we must endure to build a new Biafra from the ruins of the old. Whether he likes it or not, Ojukwu is going to be around a long time."

Nurse Thinks She Is Entitled To Half Of Physician's Income

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q.—"I'm an R.N. who works for a private physician. I'm not exaggerating when I say I do 80% of this doctor's work. He knows I'm good and we've worked together so long he lets me do practically everything except major surgery. I diagnose cases for him and tell him what should be prescribed. What galls me is that he rakes in about $700 weekly, but pays me just $150 weekly. Don't you think I'd be justified asking for a 50-50 split?"

A. — You're probably justified in asking for a wage hike. But I don't think nurses should be splitting fees with physicians. I suspect this doctor would be in hot water if his colleagues knew he was delegating so much authority to you. While you may feel you're as capable as he, his educational background and experience probably make his judgment superior to yours. If the doctor shortage persists, however, nurses may have to be given broader duties. We may eventually use the Russian system when highly qualified and experienced nurses carry the rank of "little doctor" and perform many of the chores normally done by doctors.

Q.—"I haven't been able to sleep nights since reading a government report showing that 10,000 children each year are killed by their own parents. My husband and I were never able to have children of our own, and when I think some parents exist so cruel as to actually abuse and do away with their own offspring I break into tears. Is there anything we can do about this dreadful situation?"

A. — About all we can do is be appalled and hope such parents get the punishment they deserve. With a population as large as ours, it's inevitable that a certain per cent of cruel, sadistic men and women will produce children but have no interest in caring for them. There is evidence that most abused children weren't wanted in the first place. Let's hope that with improved methods of birth control fewer unwanted children will be brought into the world.

Q. — "We've got the crummiest house in town simply because my husband won't fix anything and we can't afford to hire workers. The shutters are crooked, the roof leaks, the screens need replacement, the front steps sag, and the fence is falling down. He hasn't painted the house for 20 years and says the only thing he enjoys nowadays is sitting and thinking. He groans so about a little arthritis in one leg you'd think he was 90 instead of a mere 71. He says he doesn't give a darn how the place looks anymore, but shouldn't a man take some interest in the home?"

A. — Sure he should. But few of us do everything we should. Apparently arthritis and apathetic attitudes have smothered any home beautification instincts your hubby once harbored. If pestering doesn't rouse him to action, better save your health. See if you can't do some of this work yourself, or get a grandchild to give you a hand. Retirement should be a time for doing what one wishes, and if hubby just wants to sit and meditate, let him.

Warner Sponsors Measure Lauding Guy Henninger

A resolution to honor retiring State Selective Service Director Guy N. Henninger was introduced in the Nebraska Legislature Monday.

The resolution, sponsored by Speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly, says Henninger "has served the state of Nebraska and the United States of America well and faithfully for more than half a century."

Henninger was named state selective service director in 1940 when the Selective Service System was established and held the post until May 31. He will be honored at a testimonial dinner Tuesday night which will be attended by National Selective Service Director Lewis Hershey.

No action was taken on the resoluton.

Food, Medical Supplies Exhausted

Geneva (UPI) — An International Red cross spokesman said Monday that relief food and medicine in Biafra have been exhausted, leaving 3 million persons without enough home-grown food to avoid slow starvation.

"There may be enough rationed food for one or two more days, but, in effect, stocks have now run out," the spokesman said.

Food and medicine supplies in Biafra began to be strictly rationed two weeks ago when the relief airlift was suspended followpng the shooting down of a Red Cross aircraft.

Although both Nigeria and Biafra have given approved daytime mercy flights, they have not yet begun. Spokesmen said there also appears to be a hitch in starting river relief operations with the U.S. landing barge Donna Mercedes.

Britain To Continue Arming Nigeria

London (AP) — The British government will continue to supply arms to federal Nigeria in its war against breakaway Biafra, Maurice Foley, a junior minister at the Foreign Office, told Parliament Monday.

He said an international arms embargo on Nigeria would be "meaningless" unless Biafra accepted it and the embargo was policed on both sides.

Some Support Seen For West O Signal

Discussion by Lincoln City Council members Monday seemed to indicate they might support installation of a traffic signal system at the intersection of West O and Capital Beach Blvd.

However, council members did not formally commit themselves to support for the signal.

"We are studying the traffic problem with a temporary signal system as a possible solution," Council Vice Chiarman Ervin Peterson said after the meeting.

Not Recommended

The city traffic engineer's office has recommended that funds not be included in the 1969-70 budget for signalization at the intersection.

West Lincoln residents have continually pressed the city to install signals at the spot.

The issue came up at the council meeting when Peterson remarked that new information had been brought to the attention of the council by west Lincoln groups.

He said the information included a traffic count at the intersection made for the west Lincoln organizations and a proposal from the Lakeview PTA and the West O Businessmen's Association to donate up to $1,000 for the project.

'Far Down'

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holzinger, who said he had not seen the new information, noted that the intersection is "far down" on the priority list for signalization.

"Other intersections are in far greater need for traffic signals," he added.

Holsinger said a traffic signal system at the spot would probably cost about $700.

He argued, however, that the intersection should be channelized instead of signalized in order to prevent rear-end collisions from occurring when cars make left-hand turns.

State Welfare Unit Offers To Lease City Building

A State Department of Public Welfare offer of $12,000 a year for lease of the municipal building at 10th and R Monday was referred by the Lincoln City Council to the mayor and department heads with a request for more information.

First word of the proposal came from Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf during a pre-council meeting.

The council delayed action on the proposal, saying they wanted details on what the situation would be for city employes who now use the parking facilties at the building.

70 Spaces

City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger said 70 parking spaces are available there.

Previously occupied by the police department and the municipal court, the building still houses city shops.

State Welfare Director Robert D. McManus told council members the department would use the building until the planned state office building is completed.

Raise Salary

In other action, an ordinance was introduced that would raise the salary of the mayor from $17,325 to $18,250

City Personnel Director Walter Mitchell has said the raise is necessary if Public Works Director Robert Obering and Corporation Counsel Ralph Nelson are to receive the five per cent merit increase.

The council also dedided to hold a public hearing July 7 on the proposed truck route that would divert truck traffic from the downtown area.

Developers Object

Briarhurst Addition developers appeared at the meeting to object to a requirment that the planning commission said should be met as a condition for council approval.

The requirement involves payment for a storm sewer which is to be installed in the road ditch on public right-of-way on 48th from Old Cheney Road to the railroad tracks.

Chauncey Barney, an attorney for John Hoppe, one of the developers, said the payment is "unreasonable." He said the bond for installation of the sewers should be reduced from $90,000 to $15,000.

After lengthy discussion, the council referred the matter to the city department heads involved.

Human Rights Commission Gets Three New Members

Three new members have been appointed to the Lincoln Human Rights Commission.

The City Council Monday confirmed Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointments of John R. Scott, Kenton Williams and Clyde Sheridan.

Two of the appointments are to fill unexpired terms of members who have resigned. The third appointment is in line with a recently passed ordinance to expand the membership of the commission to include an American Indian and a labor man.

Sheridan, a retired employe of the Veterans Administration and a director of the Lincoln Action Program, is the Indian member on the commission. The labor position is still unfilled.

Scott, a real estate man, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of C. C. Kimball, also a realtor.

Williams, child welfare division director with the State Department of Public Welfare, replaces Harry (Pete) Peterson, who resigned when elected to the City Council.

The term of Williams expires Feb. 13, 1971, while Sheridan's and Scott's terms expire one year later.

Rent Supplement Programs Given Okay By Council

The Lincoln City Council Monday endorsed a federal program which provides rent supplements to low and moderate income families under Section 236 of the housing and urban development act of 1968.

The program provides rent supplements to those families living in private enterprise housing developments approved by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The council resolution will be forwarded to HUD officials.

Karl Witt, president of Belmont Construction Co., had requested the resolution because of his intent to seek federal approval of his Northside Village development in the vicinity of Adams and No. 14th St.

Witt explained that federal officials like to have local council endorsement before approving a project under Section 236.

A public hearing on the City of Lincoln's budget for the 1969-70 fiscal year will be held about Aug. 15, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said Monday.

Schwartzkopf said the council must officially set the public hearing date at the July 14 meeting.

Present plans call for the council to complete its review of the budget by Aug. 6 and act on the proposal Aug. 26.

Obering said he expects the patching to be completed by Sept. 1.

The public works director also said that South St. from 33rd to Normal should be reopened in two weeks. The street is being widened.

"We have only two streets left to resurface in our 1969 street resurfacing program," Obering said.

He listed A St. from 33rd to 48th and 33rd from P to T as the two remaining streets to be completely resurfaced.

Obering said A St. will be resurfaced after South St. is reopened.

Community Organization Activities, Legal Services Budget Increased

. . . LAP BOARD APPROVES FUND REQUESTS

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Community organization activities and legal services for low income persons gained sizable budget increases for next year in federal fund allocations approved by the Lincoln Action Program board of directors here Monday night.

A new manpower program was approved for federal funding and a rehabilitation program for alcoholics won board approval for another year's funding despite a committee recommendation for no funds.

The program proposals that would require a total of $496,472 in federal funds for the program year beginning Oct. 1, 1969, will be submitted to the Office of Economic Opportunity for approval.

Matching Funds

Local matching funds to help finance the programs will total about $135,800, according to LAP director Art May.

At a later meeting, May will recommend specific use of the fund allocations within each budget for board approval, president Neil Sipp indicated.

Board members voted to override the application and planning committee's recommendation not to seek federal funds for Houses of Hope, a rehabilitation program for alcoholics next year. Board members decided to request some $11,800 in federal funds to staff the program even though the Office of Economic Opportcnity warned the board last year that the Houses of Hope eight-month funding would be its last.

The proposal for the alcoholics program put the LAP request for local initiative programs $11,800 over the $150,000 amount that the Office of Economic Opportunity had reported would be available for Lincoln.

Application and planning committee chairman James Lightbody who represents the Lincoln Public Schools was opposed to many of his committee's recommendations and strongly urged continuing the alcoholics program.

Lightbody also repeatedly asked for cuts in the recommended allocation of $117,500 for community organization for use in other programs, primarily the new manpower program. However, board members approved the community organization budget intact, calling for additional supervisors of community organizers and a volunteer specialist.

Ideas Needed

Increased training for the organizers and more intense field supervision to help follow up ideas and proposals coming from target area councils are needed, it was emphasized.

Board Secretary Mrs. Ruth Lowe reported that in a joint meeting of the target area councils, low income persons agreed that they would place the highest priority on programs for community organization and housing.

Board members approved a $22,485 allocation in federal funds for a housing program to motivate self-improvement and local community action in improving the Clinton School neighborhood. The program will have been operating eight months by Oct. 1.

Manpower Plan

A $10,015 allocation was endorsed for a new manpower program in which LAP would hire an outreach person with firsthand experience of low-income problems to assist the State Employment Office in training and placement of low-income persons.

Other allocations of federal funds approved by the board as recommended were:

—$75,000 for Legal Services, including some $64,000 for continuation and expansion of legal services to low-income persons, and $11,000 to be held in reserve for a potential financial counseling service.

—$223,977 for three Head Start programs, including the Lincoln Public Schools full-year program, the day care center at the Malone Community Center and a summer program for children in Lancaster County outside of the Lincoln school district. Lightbody opposed the Head Start allocation.

—$10,626 for Senior Opportunities in Service, providing community organization and other services to elderly persons.

—$25,069 for summer programs. A budget proposal for next year will be presented to the board after the current summer programs are evaluated. The allocation will hold funds in reserve.

The $496,472 total of federal funds sought for special programs and delegate agencies for next year compares with some $$396,191 received in federal funds for the current year.

Earlier the LAP board had approved a request for federal funds of $54,740 for central administration and $26,970 for planning and resource mobilization for next year.

The board scheduled another meeting next Monday to discuss a document outlining its plans and priorities for the 1970 program year which incorporates the budget allocations.

Canada To Cut Size Of Military

Ottawa (AP) — Defense Minister Leo Cadieux announced Monday that Canada's armed forces will be reduced to a strength of 80,000 to 85,000 troops in the next three years. The present strength of the forces is 98,000.

Cadieux told the House of Commons the government will try to reduce administrative and support activities to provide a higher ratio of combat personnel.

The new manpower levels, he said, would be reached without introducing a program of forced attrition.

New Entrance Requirement For Kindergarten Is Killed

By Associated Press

The Legislature Monday killed a bill which would have permitted boards of education to consider performance of a child in pre-kindergarten programs in ascertaining whether the child is qualified to enter kindergarten.

Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha was chief sponsor of the measure, and an Omaha colleague, Sen. Florence Reynolds, made the kill motion. It carried 18-7.

The demise of LB1195 came after the Legislature, minus more than a dozen of its members who were on a trip to Michigan, had involved itself largely with non-controversial bills.

Absent Senators

The absent senators were studying educational and mental retardation programs in Michigan.

LB1195 would have changed the age requirement for youngsters entering first grade or kindergarten, permitting children about 2½ months younger than now allowed to enter these grades. But this provision was removed from the bill by the Education Committee.

Remaining as the chief feature of the bill was the provision authorizing boards of education to admit a youngster four years old to kindergarten programs if the child "has demonstrated a readiness for kindergarten through his performance in an early childhood education program or pre-kindergarten program."

Many States

Sen. Pedersen said the policy of taking performance in pre-kindergarten programs into account is being used by many states.

"I don't want to rely only on tests, but also on performance," Pedersen said.

Several senators suggested the law seems to permit school boards already to take pre-kindergarten performance into consideration if they wish.

Sen. Reynolds, a retired teacher, said she had received no expression of support from the Omaha School Board and hence was moving to kill it.

Other bills were advanced routinely from general file.

Scientific Publications

One of the measures advanced by the stay-at-home lawmakers, LB776 would appropriate $6,000 to aid the Nebraska Academy of Sciences to publish scientific works submitted by Nebraska scientists.

Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln, chief sponsor, said the legislation was sought by leaders of the some 500 scientists in the state who saw opportunity for publication of their treatises as a means of encouraging other scientists to locate in Nebraska.

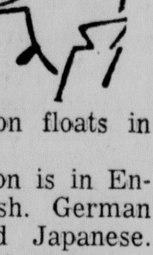
Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff questioned whether the University of Nebraska might not find funds in its budget for such publication, but was advised that scientists involved come from other institutions as well, including private colleges.

The bill was advanced on a 22-4 vote.

A 22-0 vote advanced LB1385, which amends law governing confiscation of automobiles used to transport narcotics. The bill would protect the financial interest of those persons who hold liens on such vehicles or who might have leased the vehicle to the narcotics law violator. The bill was advocated by the attorney general's office.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

The Grecian nights now are warm as money from home. So the other evening we went to Restaurant Dionysus. To give the stuffed grape leaves and spicy lamb and deep-fried squid a vote of confidence.



You eat on the terrace under a skyful of stars. High above on the Acropolis, the pillared Parthenon floats in golden light.

The conversation is in English and Turkish. German and French and Japanese. This is the tourist season.

"Octopus!" said the lady at the next table. "No thanks! Just bring me a small steak."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Tourist business is really slow this year," a Greek businessman tells me. "The government needs it too.

"The government is two years old since the King ran out. Most of their efforts to improve the economy have not succeeded. The Greeks are peculiar people.

"We could grow fine citrus here — we actually bring in oranges from Israel. But the farmers say, 'I've got my olive trees. My father and his father had these olive trees. They don't require care and I live well enough.'

☆ ☆ ☆

"So you can't get him to plant oranges."

The government thinks some tourists are scared off by world press accounts of arrests.

They were particularly hot at a Look magazine article. "Government by torture" was the main idea. The British press has been rough on them. Britain has a hereditary sensitivity to what happens in "the Med."

The morning papers refer to "paid perjurers in the Coffeehouse of Europe." Refers to prisoners as "leftist rascals getting fat and having a nice time with TV and football."

☆ ☆ ☆

The Greek businessman said: "You must remember that the people in power today have a strong memory of the four years after the war. When the communists fought anti-communists. Greek against Greek in guerrilla warfare.

He said: "This government is bitterly anti-communist. If you have any family taint of former communist connection, you find it hard to get a job. Hard to get health insurance. Hard to get any kind of official papers."

I said how about the Greek press?

He said: "Well, you see there is censorship now. But even under the old government there was a high tax on newsprint. So high no newspaper could operate with it.

"But — the government issued a license that forgave the tax. The license was issued every three months. If you printed an unfavorable story — well, perhaps your license would not be renewed."

I said: "The government could stop all these torture stories easily enough. Just let a dozen foreign journalists visit the prison camps and talk to the prisoners."

"Yes, of course," he said. "But it would require a great deal of agreement among the ministers."

Evening Wedding

The wedding of Miss Marilyn Kay Finke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern H. Finke of Bennet, and William B. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnson of Waterloo, took place at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Walton on Saturday evening, June 21. The Rev. D. F. Luebke, solemnized the service before a background of lighted candles in spiral candelabra, and arrangements of Majestic daisies and greenery. Mrs. Albert Francke played the wedding music and the vocalists were Mrs. Robert Lemke and Albert Francke.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ron Pearson of Bellevue. and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Stuart Campbell, also of Bellevue, wore alike floor-length frocks of silk organza over taffeta in the avocado shade. They carrfied bouquets of white daisies.

Stuart Campbell of Bellevue serve as best man, and the ushers included Al Campbell of Fremont; Mel Finke of Lincoln and Gary Finke.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of embroidered silk organza over taffeta in the skimmer mode. Designed with a jewel neckline and Gibson sleeves, the gown was floor-length. Her double-tiered veil of illusion, patterned with Guipure lace in a floral pattern, was held to the head with a pillbox hat and extended into a chapel train. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and gypsophelia.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to Europe Mr. Johnson and his bride will reside at 1101 Tanglewood Court, Bellevue.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, and is a member of the Bellevue public schools faculty. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Pharmacy.

Talk Around The Town

The most popular topic of conversation these days is the weather — it's too wet, too dry, too hot, too cool, too humid, just too-too-everything.

With news it's a different story — There's never a cloud in the sky when there is news and since today is one of those new days, the pre-dawn forecast is sunny.

* * *

This morning we have news of homecomers who are back in town after going interesting places — and for interesting reasons. Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright, for instance, are just home from California where, in Pasadena, they attended the graduation of their son, Gregg, from Cal Tech. We might add that young Mr. Wright not only graduated cum laude, but also received the Athlete Award.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright were accompanied to California by their son Scott, a student at Duke University, who returned to Lincoln but for a very brief stay. Right now he and a group of Duke classmates are on a tour of Europe.

* * *

It was the Orient that was toured by Mr. and Mrs. Walton Ferris who are just home.

Travel for Mr. and Mrs. Ferris began with a convention of Rotary International which was held in Honolulu. Following the convention there was a post-convention flight to Japan — then on to Taiwan, Manila, P.I., Singapore, Bangkok—back to Tokyo, on to Hong Kong and then the flight back to the States. Mr. and Mrs. Ferris didn't come directly home, however, they spent a few days in San Bruno, Calif., where their three-month-old granddaughter, Kimberly Ann, kept them highly entertained. Kimberly Ann, by the way is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ferris, whose house guests Mr. and Mrs. Ferris were during their stay in San Bruno.

We hear that Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Joy attended the Rotarian convention in Honolulu — took the post-convention flight and are back in town.

* * *

On the party calendar for this evening is the dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Leo Beck, Jr., will be host and hostess when they entertain at the University Club in pre-nuptial courtesy to Mr. Beck's sister, Miss Joelein Beck, whose marriage to Don H. Venter takes place on Wednesday evening. The guest list will include the members of the family and the bridal party.

* * *

That same party calendar tells us that Miss Ann O'Connor, whose marriage to David Green will be solemnized on Aug. 23, was the incentive for a luncheon on Monday when Mrs. Jack Martin was a hostess at her home.

Courtesies

A very popular June bride-elect has been Miss Diane Ehrlich, whose marriage to Lennis Hodgson will be an event of Saturday evening, June 28.

On Saturday evening, June 21, Miss Ehrlich and Mr. Hodgson were guests of honor at a canape party for which the host and hostess were the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Ehrlich.

The soon-to-be bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower which took place in Lexington on Saturday, June 7. Hostesses were feminie members of the Parkview Baptist Church.

Book Review

Dr. Clarence J. Forsberg will review "On Reflection" by Helen Hayes at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Preceding the book review coffee will be served and presiding at the coffee table will be Mrs. A. M. Blythe and Mrs. T. J. Thompson. In charge of the dining room are Miss Florence Atwood and the members of her committee.

Day Camps

Antelope and Bethany parks will be overflowing with little Indians all of this week. The little Indians, of course are 250 little girls who have completed the first and second grade and who are attending the Blue Bird Day Camp in progress at both parks. Indianlore is the Day Camp theme and from 9:30 o'clock each morning until 1:30 o'clock each afternoon the girls will be learning many things about their American heritage. They will study Indian songs, Indian dances and Indian crafts and today they will be entertained by Indian dances.

But the Blue Birds also will learn pertinent facts about nature, and will have the fun of cooking out of doors.

The day camp program is under the sponsorship of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls, but is made possible through the services of volunteers.

Mayor Lindsay's Daughter

NEW YORK — Just after 3 p.m. a week ago today Mayor John V. Lindsay cast his ballot in the city's primary elections.

Just before, Margie Lindsay, the mayor's 16-year-old daughter, strolled down a runway in a fashion show wearing a vertical striped skunk coat.

It may have been one of the most important political days of the year for New York, but fashion marches on. Boutique Ben Kahn presented its new line of medium-priced fun furs, featuring such delights as Tibetan yak, Japanese Tenuki and Chinese Kolinsky.

Margie Lindsay, modeling now for almost two years with the Ford Agency, took her turn on the runway with a shy smile and resigned air to pose for photographs in coats made of fox, muskrat, sable paw, and Australian wallaby.

"She looks like her old man just lost the election," commented one spectator as the tal, leggy girl walked by.

Margie declined to answer any questions about herself.

Ben Khan's furs definitely were for the very young and uninhibited. Prices ranged from $500 to $2,000 for the collection.

The natural yak poncho made the model look like the abominable snowman who had rolled in mid somewhere. The ski parka, made of New Jersey muskrat and Mongolian fox, meant easy suffocation for anyone who is a serious skier.

But it was all in fun and one of the best numbers was a mountain lion skirt and pants suit in a tawny color with the smooth look of suede.

Another interesting number, only for the very skinny, was a skirt made out of fox bellies.

Former Coed, Bride

At a 2 o'clock ceremony on Saturday afternoon, June 21, the marriage of Miss Sally F. Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Sullivan, to Rex. L. Fuller III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex L. Fuller, Jr., took place at the Cathedral of the Risen Christ. The Rt. Rev. Clarence J. Crowley solemnized the service.

Wearing floor-length frocks of pink chiffon over taffeta, the attendants were Mrs. Dennis Walls, the matron of honor; Miss Julie Robinson, the maid of honor; Mrs. David VanCleaf, bridesmatron and Miss Mary Sullivan, sister of the bride, the bridesmaid. Each carried a bouquet of pastel-toned daisies.

Gregory Fuller served his brother as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Richard Hanson of Kansas City, Mo.; Lt. Charles Cadwell, Bernard Burgess of Hyannis; Gary Cox and John Sullivan, brother of the bride.

Designed in the Victorian mode, the bride's Empire gown was fashioned of organza and Venise lace. The lace, which formed an overlay for the sculptured bodice and the high, ring neckline, was repeated to ornament and cuff the full, Camelot sleeves. The exceedingly full skirt was caught with a Dior bow at the waistline back, and extended into a cotillion length train. Her train-length veil of illusion was held to the head with double bows of organza, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

The bride is a former student at the University of Nebraska. Mr. Fuller was graduated from the University of Nebraska in May, and will enter the College of Law in the autumn.

Bridal Courtesy

Miss Linda Jean Wallin, whose betrothal to Kenneth John Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Livingston, was revealed recently, was honored at a bridal courtesy on Saturday evening, June 14.

Hostesses for the miscellaneous shower were Miss Sharon Brown and Miss Carol Hadfield who entertained 20 University of Nebraska classmates of the bride-elect at the home of Miss Brown.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale E. Wallin, the bride-to-be has chosen Saturday, June 28, for her wedding day.

Buffalo Symphony Frowns On Merger

BY RAYMOND ERICSON

(c) New York Times Service

New York — If it is true that God helps those who help themselves, then the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra should be assured of a future — an independent one, not shared as a merger with the Rochester Philharmonic. For the members of the orchestra, the people who play the violin, oboe, trombone and triangle, are literally out on the streets trying to raise a whopping $1.5 million for their own endowment fund.

It all began last month when the executive committee of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra Society, the ruling and financing group, announced that it was considering a merger with the Rochester Orchestra because of accumulated deficits. The announcement came as a bombshell to the 87 players in the orchestra, according to one of its spokesmen. At first it split them into factions, one wanting to denounce the action violently, the other seeking to do something constructive instead of merely protesting.

A players committee, headed by Rodney P. Pierce, principal oboist, decided that the orchestra should put the situation to the community and seek an endowment fund from it through the efforts of its own members. A statement was drafted for a "Save The Philharmonic" campaign, and on presentation to the orchestra, it united the musicians. With the season behind them, they agreed to give the effort everything they had, although they had had no experience in fund raising.

In its campaign, the orchestra completely disassociated itself from the governing society, which had always raised money for the maintenance fund and which now agreed to endorse the campaign. The Chamber of Commerce agreed to act as a base and as a caretaker for money collected. And the orchestra stressed the fact that they were creating an endowment fund. To the little boy who contributed a nickel, they wanted to say (optimistically) that his nickel would still be working for the orchestra when he grew up.

Not all the devices the players are using to attract money are new, but they have some resources not usually available — themselves. At one outdoor arts festival, the musicians rotated hourly to provide nine continuous hours of chamber music at two sites on both a Saturday and Sunday. This earned them more than $7,000. They have a standing offer called Dial a Concert to send a trio or similar ensemble to any benefit that promises a minimum of $150 to the fund.

The players committee is concerned not only with money. They feel that the administration has been too conservative for the best interests of the orchestra, and they have plenty of suggestions as to how it might draw larger audiences, increase its usefulness to the larger community around Buffalo, find remunerative engagements or other untapped sources of revenue.

Since other orchestral boards with upward-spiraling deficits have been toying with the idea of merging for economy's sake, it is a safe bet that their ensembles have their eyes focused on what is happening in Buffalo.

The 1969 Panorama Of New Fashions

Jurate Kazickas, writer for the Associated Press, gives us a picture of what went on, fashion-wise, at the New York Couture Coundil's press week which opened last Wednesday and during which many of the top designers presented their latest thoughts on fall and winter fashions—

Here is what she tells us:

NEW YORK — A woman doesn't have to look like her granddaughter to be fashionable, designer Jo Copeland said at the New York Couture's 53rd National Press Week. The fashion shows that followed featured fall clothes designed to flatter the woman who doesn't have the figure or the bravado for miniskirts and bare midriffs.

"The covered up, subtle, very feminine look will survive instead of these 'show it to the boys' fads," said Miss Copeland, who presented classic, elegant looks in day and evening wear that every woman can keep for years to come.

Jerseys and knits with pleated skirts, waistlines that are raised or lowered and shirtwaist styles gave a timeless look with "throw away chic" to the Copeland designs.

Suit dresses with long tailored jackets came in understated color of gray, brown and ever-popular black. Miss Copeland feels the brightness of satin is most becoming to women and one of her best styles was a cocktail dress in brown and ivory that was tied like a cowboy shirt with a deep cut jeweled neckline.

The long gowns with rich embroidery were made from a lightweight wool with the look of crepe in apple green and bright purple, perfect for the fashion conscious traveler.

Prices for this collection ranged from $190 to $650.

The Sam Friedlander dress house with designer Bob Bugnand liked the look of narrow pleats in crepe and wool for cocktail and evening wear. Sequins sewn on jersey dazzled the eye, giving a wet look to loose-fitting, long sleeved dressed. One sleep gown had a sunburst pattern of topaz, orange and brown sequins.

Brocade waas another favorite fabric. Friedlander calls it souffle lame and it looked very pretty in a light blue gown with a loosely flared skirt and jacket.

The top price here was $360.

B. H. Wragge, the designer whose styles seem to repeat themselves every other season by virtue of their classic simplicity, showed bold plaids in wool suits and coordinated ensembles that became different outfits by simply removing the scarf or the tunic jacket.

Wragge calls his wool "souffle" and the best number in this fabric came in bright mauve or pink with a long waist and slightly gathered skirt. Costing $125, this dress will never go out of style.

There's a new line of knit dresses that Wragge calls "stitches" that will sell from $70-$100 to answer the demand of women who want less expensive designs for their daughters. The prettiest of the selections was a loose-fitting, brown and white dress in a flowery pattern.

And from the New York Couture Council comes news of what will be what in fall fashions. You will be seeing many of them in the Lincoln shops just a few weeks from now.

DAVIDOW

There's a whole new feeling for Fall '69 at Davidow — bright, fresh, exuberant! Coats, suits and ensembles are styled young and free. Fabrics are brilliantly colored and excitingly textured. Davidow is fashion-right, very much in the mood of today.

And very much in today's fashion mood is Davidow's exciting collection of coats. Never have coats been more important in the Davidow story than they are this fall. Coats that move with the body easily — sometimes with high fit — with belting — with ingenious seams that fluidly shape and curve. Coats that swing gracefully, as in a French imported bold plaid of gold, black and red. Double-buttoned, it skims the body, then flares in the back with an inverted center back pleat.

Often, there's the surprise of a beautifully shaped dress underneath, as in the grey wool jersey coat dress, worn with a grey-red-white Italian wool plaid coat. Or the coral wool crepe skimmer, with short sleeves and curved seam detailing, worn under a French nubby tweed coat, sporting shades of coral/brown/black/white. Or, under a gently shaped coat in cream/brown/cognac French plaid, a soft camel's hair dress, ring collared with a high tortoise buckled belt.

LARRY ALDRICH

Every Larry Aldrich collection is a fresh avowal of excellence. This fall Marie McCarthy sees colors muted for day, with plum, putty, spinach, grey and black as her choices, in fabrics rich and varied. Plum and putty combines in one costume of an Anglo twill, the shaped shirt coat with four patch pockets over skirt and turtleneck jersey blouse. Another poses a calf-length, double-breasted coat of spinach green Melton over a soft jersey dress in bright red. Some coats take an Edwardian turn Most make a point of patch pockets — these often very low.

Striking is the splash print wool twill coat dress in black on ivory, with fly front and buttoned cuff collar. Equally striking are a spinach crepe twill coat-dress with side closing and side sashed belt, and a plum cardigan dress, buttoned in gold.

Special points of interest are belts shown high, slim straight tubes that are belted low, huge fringed mufflers, medieval brass hard-ware for buckles and buttons.

For daytime fashions, Marie NcCarthy has few peers, but it is with designs for the dark that all the opulence and imagery is revealed. Translating the simple daytime sweater and coat silhouettes through fabric and jewels into evening gems is a thing that comes naturally to her. A fly-front gold lame coat dress with low pockets and Peter Pan collar is an after-dark beauty embroidered with jewels.

Abby: your choice

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow who has been dating this fellow (divorced) and we are both in our late thirties. There is no steady arrangement but we do enjoy each other's company. Here's the problem:

Everytime we go out he makes a fuss over the waitress, has to find out her first name and from then on he's on a first name basis with her.

The last time we went out, we sat at a piano bar and the waitress sat down next to him and complained about how tired she was. Well, he proceeded to rub her back while she "oohed" and "ahhhhhed" about how good it felt.

Needless to say I was embarrassed to death and everyone around was taking it all in. I said nothing but I was very angry and let him know it when we were alone. This led to an argument. He said I was a "snob" and that he was just being "sociable." I should be so sociable with a bartender! What do you think?

NO SNOB

DEAR NO: I think if your friend wants to socialize with waitresses he should see them on his own time. And theirs. And from the sound of your letter, he probably does. You won't change him. So either accept him as he is or lose him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SHORT ON WILL POWER": Try harder. And commit this brilliant quote by Franc Shor to memory: "Self-discipline can be just as self-satisfying as self-indulgence. And infinitely more rewarding."

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, The Lincoln Star, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — six of spades.

When declarer takes a finesse, he usually hopes it will win, but there are quite a few occasions when he earnestly hopes the finesse will lose.

Here is an example of such a situation. South is in three notrump and West leads a spade. Declarer wins East's queen with the ace and decides that the best way of tackling the hand is to lead a low club and finesse the jack.

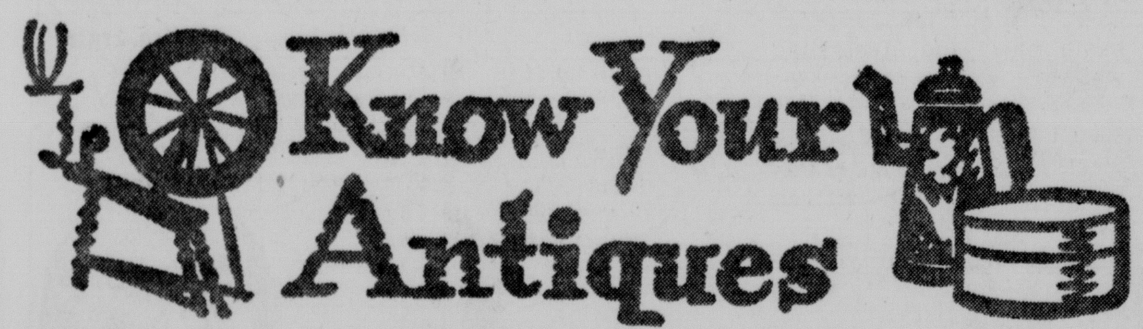
If East has the queen and takes it, South has ten cast iron tricks, since he can later overtake the king of clubs with the ace and run dummy's star-spangled suit. That is why he hopes the finesse will lose.

This method of play — taking a first round club finesse — has another advantage: declarer may still win six club tricks if West was dealt the Q-x. In that case, when South later plays the king and West's queen appears, he can afford to overtake the king with the ace.

Let's assume that in the present deal East is shrewd enough not to take the jack of clubs at trick two. In that case, declarer leads a diamond from dummy and finesses the queen. (Of course, this time South hopes the finesse will succeed.)

When it does, declarer leads the king of clubs and overtakes it with the ace. He then finesses the jack of diamonds, cashes the ace, and continues with another diamond. East takes the king and can cash the queen of clubs if he wants to, but, whatever he does, South comes home with ten tricks consisting of two spades, two hearts, four diamonds and two clubs.

Note that if declarer starts with the king and another club, he runs into serious trouble and eventually goes down one or more tricks. The immediate club finesse is easily the best play, since it assures two entries to dummy if the finesse wins and five club tricks if it loses.



Know Your Antiques

Globes came in pairs in the 18th century, one terrestrial globe pictured the earth, one celestial globe pictured the sky. Will future furniture makers include a globe of the moon?

The history of map making on a solid sphere goes back to the 1490s. It was not until the 18th century that a globe was considered a necessary piece of furniture to be included in a library.

The globe was made of a composition material. A printed map was made in pieces or gores which were mounted on the globe. Because the printed paper map stretched when it was wet, it required a clever workman to produce an accurate globe. The map was colored with water colors so the printed lines would show. Red, blue, green, yellow, purple, brown, and black were the only colors used through the 18th century.

The finished map was varnished and the globe was hung in an elaborate wooden stand. A compass was often mounted in the stand. The tripod stand became popular during the 1750s.

Q. My Wedgwood teaset looks as if it has been silverplated over the pottery. It has been in my family for many years. I understand that it is very old and very rare.

A. According to the Buten Museum of Wedgwood, silver-plated jasper ware pieces were made about 1925. The jasper was coated with a copper compound and plated with platinum. The finished set looked like sterling silver with raised decorations.

Some of the sets are now found with part of the silver color worn off and the copper showing through. Only a few sets are known that were only covered with copper.

Q. How can I tell if my glass slipper with the date Oct. 12, 1889 is cut glass. It is heavy.

A. Your slipper is pressed glass, not cut glass. The raised letters telling the date were molded into the glass. Cut glass has sharp edges and all of the design is cut into the glass.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Note-ing The Sports Scene

Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty is generally regarded as the top quipster in the collegiate football coaching fraternity, but Penn State's Joe Paterno, who will direct the East squad in Saturday night's Coach's All-American game is moving in on Duffy.

For instance:

When asked to comment on LSD, he replied, "Michigan State would beat 'em by three touchdowns."

On defensive end Lincoln Lippincott III and how Penn State came to acquire a player so named, "He was looking for Princeton and got lost."

Speaking to a faculty luncheon group, he was asked by one professor if there were any plans to make the Penn State Stadium an all-weather stadium. "I hope there are no plans to put a roof there — I don't want anything nearby where they hang things from."

Two years ago when Chuck Burkhart was understudy to Tom Sherman, he did not look good in brief appearances — and he was a likely starter in the year ahead — but usually was in the game with the second offensive unit. After one game when he looked bad playing with the second team, Paterno was asked by a writer if he thought Burkhart would look better if he were quarterbacking with the first unit. Paterno answered, "That's like asking if Lyndon Johnson would look better with all Texans in Congress."

The Big Eight's over-protective attitude toward the pros has done it again. This time it has kept the Kansas State band from appearing at halftime of a nationally-televised Dallas Cowboys football game.

The Cowboys had invited the K-State musicians to stop off on the way home from the K-State opener at Baylor to play at their game with the St. Louis Cardinals on Sept. 21.

CWS In Town, Ak Handle Up

There may have been no connection, but the Thursday that most of the College World Series folks arrived in Omaha, the Ak-Sar-Ben betting handle was up over previous Thursdays.

Then there was the guy, who claimed he knew why the jockey on the horse on whom he wagered carried a whip — to keep him from getting eaten up by mosquitoes since he was so slow.

A good golf tournament for amateur golfers to avoid is the Yankton Classic, set for July 12-13. Tourney sponsors will stage an auction of players before the final round, a flagrant violation of USGA rules and a move that could mean loss of amateur standing for any golfer participating.

Senior Citizens On The Lanes

The Lincoln Senior Citizens Bowling League from Hollywood Bowl currently is involved in a series of challenge matches with their counterparts from Omaha. The second challenge matches will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at Hollywood Bowl. Ages range from 55 to 80.

Sport Magazine offers a couple of cute items this month.

Frank Gifford, trying to console Baltimore quarterback Earl Morrall after the Colts' loss to Joe Namath and his New York Jets in the Super Bowl, offered, "You shouldn't feel too badly, Earl. You're NFL Player of the Year. Fran Tarkenton is still trying to make all-city."

And after the St. Louis University basketball team lost its 15th game in 19 starts last season, assistant coach Randy Albrecht gave his panacea for the team's ills: "We don't need practice—we need group therapy."

King Of The Castle Tops Ak Gold Cup

Omaha — King of the Castle, owned by Ogden Phipps, is top-weighted for Saturday's $40,000-added Omaha Gold Cup Handicap to be at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The race has attracted the best three-year-olds on the grounds and some mighty impressive imports.

King of the Castle, winner of more than $110,000 this year, has been assigned 132 pounds for the race at one mile and one-sixteenth. He was entered in the $100,000-added Arlington Classic last Saturday.

The local favorite, Bravoria, is second-weighted at 131 pounds. Bravoria, owned by Eileen Cascio of Bellevue and Dorothy Johnson of Omaha, has won four starts and more than $36,000 in five Ak-Sar-Ben outings.

Traffic Mark, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Roberts and winner of $162,000 in two years, has been assigned third weight of 127 pounds. Fourth in the weight is King Loma, owned by V. H. Winchell, Jr., winner in four of his last six starts and more than $50,000, at 124 pounds.

Marion H. Van Berg, the nation's leading owner, has nominated three for the stakes race — Rush Date at 115 pounds, Golden Space at 112 and Zuke's Bad Boy at 107. Other nominations and weights assigned:

Other features this week include the $10,000 Speed Handicap for three-year-olds and up on Thursday and the $15,000-added Futurity Stakes for Nebraska-bred two-year-olds on Friday.

L. J. Durousseau, who rode Vale of Tears to victory in the $50,000-added Cornhusker Handicap last Saturday, is only two short of equaling wins by a jockey which he set here a year ago.

With two weeks remaining, Durousseau has 57 wins compared to his record 59. He scored 16 victories last week. The win aboard Vale of Tears was the third straight year Durousseau has won the richest race at the Ak-Sar-Ben meeting.

Trainer Jack Van Berg is only one shy of the record for victories by a trainer. Van Berg has recorded 28 wins

National Board Gets White Case

Jefferson City, Mo. (AP) — It will be up to National Selective Service headquarters whether basketball star Jo Jo White is inducted into the armed forces or is permitted to complete six months of active service with the Connecticut Marine Reserve.

Maj. Gen. L. B. Adams Jr., state director of Selective Service, and his deputy, Lt. Col. Ralph E. McCain, decided Monday to send the problem back to Washington.

Max Ziden, a member of White's St. Louis draft board, complained that the former University of Kansas basketball whiz was getting special treatment.

White is under contract to the Boston Celtics professional basketball team.

CHAMP KEEPS CROWN

. . . Joe Cuts Game Quarry, Wins TKO

New York (AP)—Joe Frazier chopped up a game Jerry Quarry with a merciless two-fisted attack, opening a gash under the challenger's right eye, to successfully defend his piece of the world heavyweight title Monday night on a technical knockout at the end of the seventh round.

Dr. Harry Kleiman ordered referee Arthur Mercante to stop the battle after examining Quarry in his corner after the seventh round.

Referee Mercante said Quarry admitted to him that he could not see out of his right eye. He wept when the bout was stopped.

Eight stitches were taken under Quarry's right eye in the dressing room. Dr. Edwin Campbell said Quarry had contusions of the infra orbital ridge.

Quarry, a blue-eyed blond from Bellflower, Calif., came out burning like he said he would and met the champion head on for a wild first round in which neither would give ground.

Frazier took over in the second round, refusing to give Quarry punching room as he began to work over Quarry with both hands. It was Frazier all the way after the first, especially after Quarry's right eye opened in the first seconds of the fourth round.

It was obvious that Quarry, counting desperately on catching Frazier early, had run out of steam and was bothered increasingly by the cut eye.

While he still had all his strength, Quarry was a rough, tough opponent for the champ but he simply could not carry on a consistent attack against the swarming Frazier.

After the fight, there was an exchacge in mid-ring for the benefit of the television cameras between Frazier and Jimmy Ellis, the World Boxing Assiciation's champion. At one stage, Ellis shook his fist at Frazier who responded in kind, straining to get away from his handlers.

Frazier, a 2-1 favorite, was making the fourth defense of his six-state title within a year. He is recognized as world champ by New York, Massuchusetts Illinois, Maine Pennsylvania and Texas. A match with Ellis is a likely next step.

There were no knockdowns in the scheduled 15-round match between the unbeaten former Olympic champ and the man who lost to Ellis in the WBA finals

Quarry was the picture of self confidence as he climbed into the ring in his pink trunks with a blue, lucky golf hat perched on his head. He bowed to the crowd as he doffed his hat to an ovation. The challenger was the people's choice but the champ proved to be definitely the better fighter.

The slope-shouldered challenger outmuscled Frazier in the first round, banging his right to the chin two or three times. A few of his blows strayed below the belt line as did some of Frazier's later in the fight.

It was Frazier, however, who drew the only warning from referee Mercante who said "keep them up Joe", in the sixth.

Frazier was way out front on all three official cards when the bout ended. Referee Mercante and judge Tony Castellano had it 6-1 and judge Bill Rec had it 5-1-1, all for Frazier. The AP card was 6-1 for Frazier.

Frazier, winning his 24th straight and scoring his 21st knockout, came at Quarry with both hands and refused to give the challenger any punching room. It seemed to be just a matter of time after the cut opened under the right eye.

There was a mouse under Quarry's eye as he came out for the fourth, and it immediately started to bleed heavily. The doctor went to his corner after the fourth, and Quarry pleaded with him, "Don't stop it."

The eye was closing in the fifth as Frazier continued to press the attack, swarming over Quarry in the sixth and seventh with his quick jabs, devastating hook and sharp uppercuts.

"I stopped it to prevent a slaughter," said Dr. Kleiman. "He pleaded with me to let it go on after the fourth but he didn't say much when I looked at him after the seventh."

The crowd of 16,570 that paid $502,518 had made Quarry a sentimental choice, but it went home convinced that the champ deserved all the praise that has been heaped on him.

Frazier was guaranteed $250,000 against 35 per cent of the gate and 40 per cent of the closed-circuit television. Quarry got 25 per cent of each. The champ probably will wind up with about $350,000 and the challenger about $250,000. They won't know for sure until the TV receipts are counted.

George Foreman, the 1968 Olympic heavyweight champ, made his pro debut by knocking out Don Waldhelm of Freeport, N.Y. in 1:54 of the third round of a scheduled six-round match just before the main go.

Mike Quarry, 18-year-old high school grad from Bellflower, Calif., got the Quarry family off on the right foot with a majority decision over Ruben Figueroa of New York in a six-round prelim. Quarry weighed 171½, Figueroa 170. There were no knockdowns in the free-swinging brawl.

Frazier: No Unneeded Smoke

New York (AP) — "I could see I had him in trouble, oh, about the third round, so I didn't go there and blow a lot of smoke unnecessarily."

This was Joe Frazier talking after he had stopped Jerry Quarry at the end of the seventh round to retain his share of the world heavyweight title.

Sitting on a chair, seemingly as calm, cool and collected as in the ring, Frazier said, "I knew I had to be careful of him. I was prepared when he came out smoking in the first two rounds."

"I could see he was starting his punches from the hip, so I stayed close and kept under his rights and lefts.

"When the cut was opened over his right eye, I decided to be cautious. I just took my shots because I knew he was game. I stayed right on top him and kept jabbing."

Quarry's mother came into the drssing room to offer congratulations to Frazier and Joe said, "you see no racial incident of any kind."

Frazier started to jump out of the ring after the fight was stopped, right at the top where Jimmy Ellis, the World Boxing Association champion, was sitting, but jumped right back to embrace the game Quarry.

"What did you say to Ellis," Frazier was asked. "I just told him he was no champ," Frazier grinned.

Ellis, who also came into the room, said "I don't know why he jumped out of the ring, but he sure got back in quick fashion."

Yank Durham, Frazier's manager, said current plans for Frazier call for the six-state champion, as well as Mexico and Argentina, to take a rest, but "We'll be ready to fight anybody anytime if the price is right."

Heidi Now A Golfer With Ace To Her Credit

Miss Henningson, who has only been playing golf for a year, used a three-iron for her ace on the par-3 course.

All Non-Titlists In City Golf

. . . BORNER, LAU, TABER ABSENT FROM MEN'S TOURNEY

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

It'll be a maidens race in the Lincoln Men's City Golf Tournament that gets under way today at Pioneers Park with only a field of non-winners going to the post.

The only former champion in the field of 119 in the 72-hole test is Emil Franks, who won in 1937 and again in 1945. But this time around Franks will be vying in the senior division of the tourney.

Missing are the three golfers who have controlled the title for the past six years.

Defending champion Charlie Borner, who also won in 1964, has taken residence in North Platte where he serves as the high school golf coach.

R. B. Lau, the 1967 winner, is now living in Indiana and Matt Taber, champion in 1963, 1965 and 1966, did not enter.

That leaves a half dozen or so golfers, who have been chasing this trio over the years, to bid for the top prize this time and you can pick your own favorite with little on the form chart to go by.

If you have to pick a favorite, you'd likely have to go with Larry Romjue. who has been a runner-up in more tournaments than he'd care to count.

But the winner could come from a list that includes Ed Dosek, Jim Lowe, Dan Harris, Scott Brunzell, Tim Bateman, Mike Ley, Tim Nelson, Ed Smith and Paul Anderson.

Dosek, Brunzell, Bateman, Romjue and Smith were participants in the past weekend's Nebraska State Amateur Match Play Tournament, but none reached the semifinals of that affair.

The golfers will play 18 holes each day, moving from Pioneers to Holmes Park on Wednesday, Lincoln Country Club Thursday and Hillcrest County Club Friday.

For the third year, the tourney is being played without flights except for the seniors (over 50), who must decide at the end of the tourney whether they want to be a part of the regular prize list or in the seniors flight.

Proxy-Pro To Osvog In Playoff

Don Osvog birdied the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Dan Harris Monday to lead qualifiers in the Lincoln Jaycees Junior Golf Tournament and the Proxy-Pro Junior Tournament, sponsored by the National Association of Independent Insurance Agents.

Osvog and Harris tied at the end of the regulation 18 holes at Pioneers Park with five-over-par 76s. The third qualifying spot went to Randy Carlson with a six-over-par 77.

The three will play in the Nebraska Proxy-Pro Tournament at Holmes Park on July 7, vying with youngsters from across the state for a trip to the national Proxy-Pro Tournament where they will play with a touring pro.

The trio also will compete June 30-July 1-2 at the Alliance Country Club in the Nebraska State Jaycees Junior Tournament.

Quarry Sad Bout Stopped Despite Cut

New York (AP) — Jerry Quarry, his handsome features showing the marks of Joe Frazier's savage blows, said he didn't want the doctor to stop their heavyweight championship fight Monday night because "I could still see out my left eye."

"I couldn't see out of my right," admitted the Bellflower, Calif. boxer who was knocked out for the first time in his career. "I didn't want the fight to be stopped. I wanted to go out punching like a man."

Quarry said he had trouble finding the punching range after Frazier, the unbeaten Philadelphian, opened an ugly cut under his right eye late in the third round. "After that, I had blurred vision.

"But, I'll tell you this," Quarry added, "I had too many complaints in the past about not fighting. I came out fighting and I lost. I wouldn't do anything any differently."

Asked if he hurt his right hand at any time during the seven-round bout, Quarry said, "I didn't hurt my right hand. I didn't hurt my left hand. I didn't hurt my back. I just had too much fighter out there with me."

Lew Happy To Dunk Again

. . . ALCINDOR'S STYLE OF PLAY 'SMART'

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — Lew Alcindor is making dunk shots again — and that's one more reason he's happy to be in pro basketball.

"It was a real pleasure to dunk again," he said after making his competitive debut Sunday night as a Milwaukee Buck of the National Basketball Association.

The towering All-American from UCLA pleased a turnout of 10,482 fans at the Milwaukee Arena by scoring 35 points in a game between two teams made up of Bucks' players.

With the 7-foot-1 inch Alcindor on their side, the Whites beat the Greens, 125-118.

The dunk shot had been outlawed in college basketball during Alcindor's last two years at UCLA. Sunday night he made eight of his 16 baskets on stuff shots.

"I don't think it was any good for the game of basketball to ban the dunk shot," he said, "but it didn't hurt me as much as it did the players 6-foot-8 or 6-9."

"I think not dunking was good for me overall," he added, "because it helped me improve the rest of my game. But I was looking forward to doing it again."

Alcindor, the first round draft choice of the Bucks who will head into their second season next fall, played 41 of the 48 minutes.

Head coach Larry Costello, who coached the losing Greens, was quick to correct any impression that his new star was dogging it when he occasionally tarried in the backcourt.

"Lew's a smart ballplayer," said Costello. "He knows when to conserve himself. He gets the ball out there for the fast break, and then he watches how it develops. If the guards hold up, he comes up to join the attack. If the fast break goes, what's the use of him rushing up just in time to run back to the other end?

Assistant coach Tom Nisalke, who guided the Whites, also liked the Alcindor style.

"Last year, one of our problems was that when we got the ball, everyone would rush up the court, and no one would be back on defense," Nissalke said. "You've got to like the way he plays safety, too — the way he just waits there when they come in on him and makes them make the first move."

All told, Alcindor made 16 baskets in 27 attempts and three free throws in four attempts.

The Whites also had the help of Flynn Robinson, the Bucks' high scorer last year, who had 22 points. Another returnee, Sam Williams, added 20, and the Bucks' second round draft selection, Bob Greacen of Rutgers, accounted for 14.

Alcindor, who received a standing ovation of almost a minute, said he was "pretty well satisfied" with his performance.

"I've got some adapting to do as far as playing pro ball is concerned, and I feel that I've made some adjustments already," he said.

"Everybody told me this was a good basketball town," said Alcindor, "but the ovation was a pleasant surprise."

Scottsbluff's Hart Wins Golf Meet

Evergreen, Colo. (UPI) — Big Ted Hart of Scottsbluff won the 6th annual Colorado Open Sunday with his putting and a wedge he affectionally calls "Jungle Jim."

"That's what won it for me," Hart said, after shooting a final par 70 over the Hiwan Country Club Course. "Old Jungle Jim saved me from those double bogies and I putted very well. But man, it seemed like I was never on the green."

Hart finished the 72-hole tournament with a 286 total, one stroke ahead of Oklahoma State Sophomore Mark Hayes who had led throughout most of the tourney.

Hart, 40, known as Jolly Ted because of his disposition and 255 pounds, missed nine greens Sunday but saved pars on seven of them with accurately placed wedge shots and steady putting.

He had rounds of 72-73 71—to go with his final round of 70 in winning the tournament and $1,250 in prize money.

The loss was a heartbreaker for Hayes who led most of the way and who enters the 72nd NCAA Golf Championships in Colorado Springs on Wednesday.

Hayes fired a 72 in the final round and closed with a 287 total for runner-up honors.

John Hamer, 26, an amateur from Boulder, Colo., finished with a 74 and captured third place with a total of 291.

Tied at fourth were former touring pro Fred Wampler of the Denver Country Club and Dick Taylor of Florence Junction, Ariz.

Net Stars Call Meeting To Talk About S. Africa

Wimbledon, England (AP) — The world's top tennis stars called a special meeting Monday to discuss a move to ban South African players from the world circuit.

John Newcombe of Australia, chairman of the newly formed International Tennis Players' Association, said:

"If there is any question of banning South Africans, we feel we should have a say. It is a subject which requires a whole meeting to itself."

Susie Climbs

Cinncinnati (AP) — Susie Berning's victory Sunday in the Pabst Classic Golf Tournament boosted her from 15th to eighth place in money winnings on the Ladies Professional Golf Association's 1969 tour.

Padres Fall Again, 5-0; Streak At 9

By Associated Press

Jim Merritt checked San Diego on two hits and Tony Perez backed him with a three-run homer as Cincinnati extended the Padres' losing streak to nine games, 5-0, in major league baseball Monday night.

Merritt, a lefty, retired 16 straight Padres before Clarence Gaston's single to right with one out in the sixth. Then he retired the next 10 Padres before John Sipin's two-out single in the ninth.

Perez smashed his 14th homer of the season in the Reds' four-run third.

Ron Santo's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning produced the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged Pittsburgh 5-4 and increased their East Division lead in the National League to five games over the idle New York Mets. Billy Williams' RBI single had tied it 4-4 earlier in the ninth.

Manny Mota knocked in three runs with a homer and a single as Los Angeles knocked off Atlanta 5-2 and moved 1½ games ahead of the Braves in the NL's West Division.

Winner Don Sutton, who has lost five, became the majors' second 11-game winner with the triumph.

Denis Menke and Gary Geiger each knocked in three runs and Don Wilson scattered six hits and struck out nine as Houston whipped the San Francisco Giants 9-3 for their seventh straight victory.

A pair of eighth inning homers by Frank Robinson and Dave Johnson powered Baltimore to a rain-delayed 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

Robinson lined his 15th homer a bases empty job, with one out in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie. One out later, after Brooks Robinson was hit by a pitch, Johson smashed his fourth of the season.

Pinch-hitter Jim Price smashed a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give Detroit a 6-5 come-from-behind victory over the New York Yankees.

California exploded for 14 hits, including a leadoff inside-the-park home run by Sandy Alomar, and defeated Minnesota 5-2. The 14 hits was the most of the year for California.

Rain washed out the St. Louis at Montreal, Cleveland at Boston and Chicago at Seattle games. The New York Mets, Philadelphia, Oakland and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Spigot, Bankers Win AAA Games

The Spigot picked up three hits in the fifth inning for two runs and withstood a seventh-inning rally to defeat Flynn's, 2-1, in a Class AAA city softball game at Ballard Field Monday night.

Denny Smith and Ron Goldenstein each got three hits in four trips to the plate for Citizen's State Bank as the bankers whipped Burmood's, 7-1, in Monday night's second game.

Smith's hits included a triple and a fifth-inning solo home run, while Goldenstein had a double and a triple.

Further Hearings Sought For Clay

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Federal Judge Joe Ingraham was asked Monday by attorneys for Cassius Clay to hold further hearings on the Clay wiretap case.

Ingraham was asked to order additional testimony unless the court believes there already is sufficient evidence of taint to vacate Clay's 1967 conviction for failing to be inducted into the armed forces.

Government attorneys contend a hearing earlier this month showed conclusively that four wire tapped conversations involving Clay had no bearing on his Selective Service record nor on the 1967 trial in Ingraham's court.

—ANKLES AILING—

Prince Appears Out Until 1970

Los Angeles (AP) — Trainer Jonny Longden says Majestic Prince probably won't race again until 1970 because of a condition which began showing up even before the California colt's Preakness victory and Belmont defeat.

Longden told newsmen Sunday Majestic Prince has inflammation of both front ankles, a condition the trainer described as not too serious "but enough to keep him out of action quite a while."

Majestic Prince won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness by narrow margins over Arts and Letters, then lost the Belmont to him by five lengths.

"I knew something was bothering him," Longden said. "He wasn't acting just right even before the Preakness. Then when he started that new trick of bearing out, I knew something was wrong."

Longden said that was his reason for trying to withhold Majestic Prince from the long, physically-demanding Belmont. But owner Frank McMahon decided not to pass up the colt's only shot at the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds.

While he knew something was wrong with the colt, Longden said the exact nature of his trouble wasn't discovered until after the Belmont when Majestic Prince was brought to Hollywood Park.

Treatment of the inflammation, he said, will include the insertion of pins into the ankles. Meanwhile, the colt will be stabled at Longden's ranch, 60 miles east of here.

The condition wiped out any hope of a scheduled fourth meeting of Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters, tentatively planned for the fall in Chicago.

Longden indicated the colt might be in shape to return to competition at Santa Anita where racing resumes Dec. 26.

NU Regents Approve Hike Of $12.50 In Student Fees

Omaha — Student fees will go up $12.50 per semester starting next fall on the Lincoln campuses of the University of Nebrska to channel more money into the Student Health Service, Nebraska Union and student projects.

The NU Board of Regents Monday approved the jump in fees from $39 to $51.50 per semester on a 5-1 vote at its meeting here.

The new fees allocation will include $21 for operation of the student Health Service, an $8 increase; $6 for operation of the Nebraska Union, a $1.50 increase; a $2.50 allocation for building and equipment fund for additional student union facilities; and 50 cents for a fund "with priority or special projects proposed by the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska.

Not Increased

The remainder of the student fees, which were not increased, are divided as follows: $1.25 for Daily Nebraskan; $16.50 for debt service on bonds for student union, Student Health Center and recreational facilities; $2 for student recreation; 30 cents for ASUN and $1.45 for Student Activities Office, New Student Program, Placement Office and student projects.

Omaha Regent Richard Herman opposed the fee package because the programs for which the 50-cent student projects fund would finance "were not laid out prior to the funds being allocated."

Herman declared that he would vote against any funds going to the Free University, which ASUN President William Chaloupka of Hastings had told the Regents would be one of the priority items for additional money.

The Free University is conducted by volunteer students and NU faculty outside the regular University program.

For Catalog

Chaloupka pointed out that some ASUN money already goes to the Free University in a budget approved by administrative officials. Any funds that would be spent on the Free University would go for producing a catalog of courses and paying a staff member to help operate it, he said.

Lincoln President Dr. Joseph Soshnik reported that the fee increase was reviewed by representative student leaders who "recognized the need for the increase."

In other business Monday the Regents named Dr. Fred Luthans as assistant dean of the College of Business Administration on the Lincoln campus, succeeding Dr. Miles Tommeraasen.

Luthans, who has been associate professor of management at NU, has also taught at the U.S. military Academy at West Point. He is the author of numerous articles on management and three books.

Other personnel action included the following appointments:

—Albert E. Poorman, former Kearney State College instructor, research associate in zoology at Lincoln.

—Ernest George Beinhart, formerly at Clemson University, professor of agronomy with University Mission in Columbia.

—Dr. John D. Douthit, formerly on the staffs of hospitals in Hastings and Denver, Colo., associate professor and vice chairman of orthopedic surgery at the Medical Center.

—Jo Ann Carrigan, formerly at Louisiana State University, associate professor of history at UNO.

—Aaron Armfield, formerly at East Texas State University, associate professor and chairman of special education at UNO.

—Richard H. Blake, associate professor of guidance at UNO, chairman of the department.

Regents approved the retirement of long-time professor of family economics and management in Lincoln, Arnold E. Baragar, and the resignation of UNO director of admissions and associate professor of education, James A. Scriven Jr.

Committee Named

Ten persons representing students, faculty and administration were appointed to a committee to search for a new chancellor to succeed Dr. Clifford Hardin, now U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Named to the committee, none of whom will be considered for the position of chancellor were: Dr. Paul Olson, Dr. Everett Peterson and student John Moseman representing the Lincoln campuses and outstate activities; Dr. Harry W. McFadden Jr., Dr. John R. Jones and student Steven Lagerberg, representing the Medical Center; Dr. John V. Blackwell, Dr. A. —Purchased property of Olga P. Nelson containing 6,900 sq. ft. in Omaha's Potter's Addition for $19,000.

—Approved a contract with Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital for an intern affiliation agreement.

Regents Support 2 Bills In Unicam

Omaha — University of Nebreska Regents Monday went on record in support of two bills in the Legislature dealing with state guarantees for student loans and defining residency requirements for student tuition.

Regents unanimously approved a resolution seeking favorable action on LB939 and LB1229.

LB939 would call for a constitutional amendment permitting the Legislature to provide guarantees for student loans.

LB1229 would make students from out of state who have made their homes in Nebraska eligible for resident tuition.

Unicam Gives Initial Okay To Bill Setting Term Of Ed Commissioner

By United Press International

Nebraska's Legislature gave first round approval Monday to a bill to set a two-year term for the state education commissioner and to require that he could be dismissed only after a hearing.

Sponsored by Speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly, LB1419 was sent over its first floor hurdle on an 18-4 vote, with only Sens. Leslie Stull of Alliance, Leslie Robinson of Kearney and Omahans Florence Reynolds and George Syas voting against it.

Syas was the only senator to voice opposition to it. He said a two-year term of office for the commissioner was too short and that it should be at least four years.

The measure, shich was designed by the Unicameral's reference committee as a "non-controversial bill," arose out of a controversial situation involving the dismissal of former Commissioner Floyd Miller.

In the weeks leading to Miller's firing, it was questioned whether the State Board of Education had the authority to fire him, and, if so, whether it could do so without giving him a hearing.

Warner said the purpose of the bill is to clear up the situation.

17 Others

The Legislature also initially approved 17 other bills, including LB1352 to establish the governor's crime commission as a statutory state government agency and LB1306 to set minimum construction standards for railroads and truck tank cars transporting anhydrous ammonia.

The bill to establish the crime commission as a statutory agency under the control of the Legislature rather than the governor was approved on a 21-1 vote with Sen. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha casting the lone "no" vote.

Passage of the bill would insure the commission being a permanent part of state government. It presently exists at thepleasure of Gov. Norbert. T. Tiemann, who created it by executive order.

19-0 Vote

The bill to set minimum construction standards for railroad and truck tank cars was advanced on a 19-0 vote.

It was introduced as a result of the February disaster at Crete which claimed the lives of nine persons.

Among other bills advanced were ones to:

—Adopt a Nebraska livestock sellers protection act, which is designed to protect ranchers and farmers from financial loss due to the failure of a slaughterhouse or other market.

—Prohibit the importation into Nebrasla of any swine except from states which have hog cholera eradication programs.

Dormitory Rates To Be Increased At State Colleges

An increase in dormitory and board rates is in prospect the year after next for approximately 6,000 young men and women at Nebraska's four state colleges, under terms of the presently-pending general fund appropriations bill.

Incorporated into the measure is the Budget Committee's directive that beginning with the second year of the coming biennium, state college dormitory occupants must begin paying all dormitory utility costs.

Officials of the state colleges estimated Monday that these costs, estimated at about $400,000 a year, will require an increase of at least 10% in board and room rates.

At the University of Nebraska, dormitory residents have always been charged with utility costs, but at the state colleges, these utility costs have been paid, in effect, by taxpayers.

Present two-semester board and room rates at the state colleges at Chadron, Peru, Wayne and Kearney run about $700.

Carstens Eyes $800,000 For Beatrice Work

Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice said Monday he plans to seek about $800,000 in capital construction funds for the Beatrice State Home.

The request will be made via offered amendments to LB1425, the omnibus 1969-71 capital construction bill, he said.

Debate on the bill is scheduled to be resumed Tuesday.

One Carstens amendment calls for $728,000 for construction of a recreation building at the Beatrice institution, he said.

The other would appropriate $75,000 to provide some kind of air conditioning for wards containing the more severely retarded patients.

Rhine River Fish Hit By Poisoning

Duesseldorf, Germany (UPI) — West German authorities said Monday the fish population of the Rhine River, numbering in the millions, had been poisoned by an unknown pollutant.

"It can be assumed the entire stock of fish in the river has fallen victim to poison," a state agriculture and wildlife official said. "It is worse than anything in the past." The Rhine River is 820 miles long.

Stringent precautions were ordered to make sure the pollutant does not endanger human life. Police loudspeaker trucks partolled the river banks warning residents not to use the water for swimming or washing, and not to eat fish from the river or feed them to livestock.

Kennedy Seeking Kindergarten Bill Reconsideration

Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove Monday moved to reconsider the Legislature's action earlier in the day which killed a bill changing the qualifications for entry into kindergarten. (See story Page 7.)

The bill died on an 18-7 vote Monday forenoon while Kennedy was absent. Action on his reconsider motion was deferred.

Specifically, LB1195 would permit boards of education to consider performance of a child in prekindergarten programs in ascertaining whether the child is qualified to enter kindergarten.

Stock Mart Pares Its Early Losses

New York (AP) — A late assist from reported bargain hunting helped the stock market pare its early sharp losses Monday, but the market still finished at another new low for the year.

"The market is in deeply oversold territory so some technical bounce was not unexpected and it came largely in the last hour of trading," an analyst said. "The bounce may continue for a day or two or even more as bargain hunters make their presence felt, but the underlying forces which have driven the market down have not changed and the advance must be looked on as technical in nature. It could end at any time."

Investor concern over tight money and monetary restraint continue to weigh on the market, he said, remarking that this has been cited in large part for the market's recent very sharp decline. The Dow Jones industrial average, for example, has been falling steadily from its 1969 high of 968.85 reached on May 14. Last week it lost a total of 18.69 points.

The Dow Industrial was off 9.05 at 1 p.m. EDT Monday but it turned after that and closed off 5.30 or 0.60%, at 870.86, a new low for 1969 and the lowest it has closed since last Aug. 9 when it closed at 869.65. The previous low for the year was set Friday when the Dow industrial closed at 876.16.

Volume was 12.19 million shares, compared with 11.37 million Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2 3 to close at a new 1969 lowt o 309.8, with industrials off 2.2, rails off 1.8, and utilities off 1.4.

Blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded o the Big Board totaled 61, compared with 74 Friday.

Pennzoil, United, most-active largely on a block of 178,300 shares, fell ⅝t to 34⅝. Thirteen of the 20 most-active issues on the Big Board declined, 4 advanced and 3 were unchanged.

Prices generally were lowr on the American Stock Exchange, whose index lost 27 cents to $27.72. Of 1,080 issues traded, 206 advanced and 739 declined.

Volume was 5 84 million shares, compared with 4.83 million Friday.

Demand Is Good For Heifers

Omaha (AP) — Good demand for slaughter heifers partially offset a continued slow trade on steers in a two-way market Monday.

The outlet remained good for most grades of heifers with any amount of weight and prices looked fully steady despite a lower trend at Chicago. Steers took a steady to weak, instances 25 cent lower course, declines primarilly on choice and prime grades. It was a slow trade in the steer division, with buyers purchasing on a selective basis. Narrow demand from feeder buyers helped keep the pressure on the trade.

A slow and just steady trade backgrounded the market.

Cows remained under some pressure and tended weak at last week's decline. Bulls were steady, as was a moderate outlay of feeder cattle.

Steer top at Omaha Monday settled at 34.90 for a load choice to prime 1,209 lb. offerings. Several loads and part loads comparable quality 1,210-1,321 lbs. brought 34.50-34.60, bulk choice 33.25-34.25, inbetween quality good and choice down to 32.00. Topgood 1,212 lb. dairy breds noted 31.00.

Best heifers were two loads choice to prime 925 lbs. 34.25. Other well-finished 975-1,088 lbs. 33.75-34.00, most choice 32.00-33.50, mixed good and choice 750-1,000 lbs. 31.00-32.25.

Bulk top beef cows 21.75, few extra good 22.00-22.25. Boners 20-50 and down, mixed cutter-utility to 21.00. Few lean commercial bulls 26.75-27.00, bulk bologna down to 24.50.

Wheat Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures prices shot ahead by more than 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Monday, influenced by some heavy weather over the weekend that could have affected the 1969 wheat crop yield.

Corn futures also advanced, posting a rise of about 1½ cents before profit taking moved into the pit and tended to weaken the nearby options. Soybeans also displayed some strength, especially in the new crop options, based on the weather.

The strength in wheat futures was visible on the opening when, under active buying, prices moved ahead about 1 cent a bushel. Some liquidation for profit followed, but later new buying entered the pit and at the close prices were at highs for the day.

At the close, wheat was 1¾ to 2⅛ cents a bushel higher, July 1.28¾; corn was ⅛ lower to ⅞ higher, July 1.28¼; oats were ⅛ to ½ higher, July 62⅛; rye was 1 to ½ higher, July 1.17¾, and soybeans were ½ lowzr to ¾ higher, July 2.66¼.

School For Alcohol Studies Aimed At 'Education Gap'

The first Nebraska School for Alcohol Studies opened Monday in the Nebraska Student Union.

Some 200 students and faculty members were on hand to hear three speakers during the day and to begin a series of "problem-solving seminars" intended to correct the "serious educational gap in the standard training programs presently available" in dealing with alcoholism.

Jack Swift of the Kansas City, Mo., Council on Alcoholism, described the problem of bringing professional and charitable attitudes concerning alcoholism up to date as "like a pygmy in the Congo trying to invent a guided missile."

The standard treatment for alcoholics are hopelessly inadequate, he claimed, since the known alcoholics comprise only a tenth of the people suffering from the disease known as "acute chronic alcoholism."

He cited as an example Lancaster County, which contains some 5500 alcoholics, according to community health figures.

In the opening session clinical psychologist Dan Anderson of the Hazelden Foundation in Center City, Minn., said that the ambivalent attitude of Americans toward alcoholics is the source of much of the difficulty in dealing with the problem.

He said that the Hazelden Foundation, which employs a system of reorientation through personal counseling and group therapy besides simple detoxification and medical aid, has achieved success rates as high as 80%.

Dr. Vern Johnson of Hazelden, speaking at the evening session, described the famous foundation's methods.

"Since alcoholism is an actual physical disease of a chronic nature", he explained, "the personal rehabilitation of the alcoholic is absolutely necessary to ensure that he will not relapse."

Hazelden has instituted a program of intensive education of alcoholics, alongside a program of group therapy which, Dr. Johnson said, has been very successful in forcing patients to confront the "self-delusive mechanisms with which they have allowed themselves to become reliant on alcohol."

Continuing out-patient therapy following release is also an important part of Hazelden's program, he said.

Dr. Max Teare then described Missouri's efforts in dealing with alcoholism. Teare is a practicing psychologist at Western Mental Health Center in Kansas City.

"Missouri, like Hazelden, has been experimenting with the group therapy approach with very good success, thanks to a program of state matching funds," Teare said.

"The alcoholic personality does not exist," he stated, explaining that little is known about the cause of alcohol dependency, and that "alcoholic characteristics" appear as a result of the dependency.

The conference, sponsored jointly by the University of Nebraska Extension Division and the Alcohol Division of the State Department of Institutions, continues through Friday.

District Probation Officers Name Lindholm Chief

Nebraska district probation officers Monday formed a new Nebraska District Probation Officers Association and named Vern Lindholm of Chadron as president.

Other new officers are William Eynon of Wayne, vice president; W. Paul Beave of Loncoln, treasurer, and Larry Heckert of Lincoln, secretary.

The group, in a closed session Monday, studied recommendations of the governor's crime commission toward improvement of their system.

Recommendations from the new probation association will be made later this week to the Nebraska District Court Judges Association.

'NOT BEATEN'

Dr. Phillip Caplan, a Florida professor who was arrested in Oakland, Calif., on a morals charge last Wednesday and died Saturday, was not beaten by arresting officers as claimed, Police Chief Charles R. Cain said Monday. The chief said the autopsy surgeon reported no evidence of trauma or injury to Dr. Caplan.

New Judgeship For Nebraska In Senate Bill

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the House Monday a bill providing for 67 new U.S. District Court judgeships.

Nebraska is listed for one new judgeship.

The largest increases are six additional judges for the eastern district of Pennsylvania and five for the southern district of New York.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told the Senate the bill is necessary because of a substantial increase in the criminal and civil caseload in the courts.

He said the additional judgeships had been recommended by the U.S. Judicial Conference, the policy arm of the courts, and the Administrative Office of the Federal Courts.

Justice Officials Move To Settle Antitrust Action

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department moved Monday to settle a three-year-old antitrust complaint by forbidding seven companies and a cooperative association from conspiring to fix prices on liquid asphalt.

Atty. Gen. John Mithcell said a proposed consent decree, scheduled to become final in 30 days, was filed in U.S. District Court in Kansas City, Kan.

The settlement concludes a civil antitrust suit brought in April 1966, against Socony Mobil Oil Co. Inc., Skelly Oil Co., American Petrofina Co. of Texas, Union Asphalts & Roadoils Inc., the American Oil Co., APCO Oil Corp., Phillips Petroleum Co., and the Consumers Cooperative Association.

The government had charged the companies and the trade group with conspiring to fix and maintain non-competitive prices for the sale of liquid asphalt in the state of Kansas.

Involved in the conspiracy, the suit charged, were the submission of collusive and rigged bids and price quotations and the allocation among the companies of asphalt sales to the state.

The settlement bans the defendants from entering into any such agreement, contract, understanding or program in the future.

The judgement also sets limits on disclosing or communicating price or sealed bid information to any other ashalt producers, distributors or sellers.

And for a period of five years, each defendant will be required to submit affadavits when it is bidding on asphalt sales to any governmental awarding authority in 11 midwestern states.

The affadavit, which must stipulate no collusion was involved in the bidding process, would have to be submitted by the companies on bids in the states of Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

School Food Service Meet Opens

The annual convention of the Nebraska School Food Service Association began Monday with approximately 220 public school kitchen workers and managers in attendance, according to Allen Elliot of Lincoln, state director of school food services.

Elliott opened the convention with an address concerning the contract between his office, a part of the State Department of Education, and the schools which receive federal aid for school lunches through the office.

The obligation of such schools, he said, is to furnish balanced lunches free of charge for those children who cannot pay for them, to keep records and to provide the necessary equipment and labor.

Miss Anna Smrha, the State Health Department's chief nutrition consultant, then briefed the conventioners on the importance of serving well-balanced lunches. She explained the purposes of the five basic food types which are required in every government-aided lunch.

The afternoon was spent in small group meetings, during which the education and health departments presented instruction to the kitchen workers and managers in planning and evaluating menus, making market orders, storing and serving foods, practicing sanitation and safety, scheduling jobs and controlling costs.

Wednesday the association will hold its annual business meeting. Mrs. Luella McMillan of Crete, who was served as president-elect for the past year, will be installed as president.

Other officers to be installed are: Mrs. Marie Dewey of Big Springs, president-elect; Mrs. Nell Adams of Bridgeport, treasurer; Mrs. Majorie Hayes of Omaha, secretary.

Mrs. Helen McGee, of Midwest City, Oklahoma, president-elect of the national school food service organization, will speak Wednesday at 2 p.m. Some 500 participants are expected to be on hand for the Wednesday proceedings.

Bullet Wounds Prove Fatal To David Esquivel

Bullet wounds to the stomach have claimed the life of David S. Esquivel, 20, of Lincoln, who died Monday in a Portland, Ore., hospital.

Mr. Esquivel was wounded at the home of his brother, Allen, on June 8. Police reported that the shooting resulted from a neighborhood dispute over broken bottles being thrown on porches. Albert S. Bloomquist, 69, a neighbor, was booked for assault with a deadly weapon.

Mr. Esquivel returned from a year of duty in Vietnam last December and was on leave from U.S. Army duty at Fort Hood, Tex., when the shooting took place. He was a graduate of Lincoln High School.

Dr. Miller recently was dismissed from the post by the State Board of Education. He has been succeeded by Cecil Stanley, formerly assistant commissioner.

George Leonard Dies At Age 79

Chaotic SDS Convention Closes With Two Rival Governing Bodies

Chicago (AP) — The Students for a Democratic Society ended a chaotic five-day convention Monday with two different groups of officers — each of them claiming to be "the real SDS."

A so-called regular faction, which included most of the former officers, elected Mark Rudd, 22, of New York City, as national secretary to succeed Michael Klonsky. Rudd was one of the leaders of the Columbia University takeover last year.

Meanwhile, the rival pro-Peking Progressive Labor party named John Pennington of Boston, a Harvard alumnus, as its national secretary.

The two factions had split over whether the SDS should shift its emphasis from the campus to labor.

The "regulars" seek a broader base than college campuses for their revolutionary movement, while the Progressive Labor faction believes students should be in the vanguard of revolution.

Before walking out of the Coliseum, the Klonsky group expelled the Progressive Labor group from the organization, claiming the split would tighten up its traditionally loose-knit organization.

Newsmen were barred from all convention sessions, but it was learned that the Progressive Labor faction planned to take legal action to gain control of the headquarters and its assets.

Meanwhile, the "regular" group adopted a resolution for SDS sponsorship of a week-long series of antiwar demonstrations in Chicago in September. The demonstrations would coincide with the trial of eight antiwar protesters charged with inciting rioting during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

Burger Joined Court Action In TV Discrimination Case

Washington (UPI) — In one of his last cases on the U.S. Appeals Court, Warren E. Burger joined two other judges in lifting the license of a Jackson, Miss., television station accused of discriminating against Negroes in its programs.

The three-judge panel, in an opinion dated June 20, said the Federal Communications Commission erred in renewing Lamar Life Broadcasting Co.'s license for WLBT-TV. It ordered the license vacated and sent it back for new FCC hearings but said that Lamar Life could reapply for the license.

The court held that the FCC hearings on WLBT-TV's license renewal were biased because the FCC hearing examiner shifted the burden of proof from the station to a group of Jackson citizens who opposed the renewal.

The appeal of the FCC renewal was brought by the same group through the communications office of the United Church of Christ. The citizens complained the station would not carry programs or advertisements with Negroes in them and that two of its commentators used disparaging terms for Negroes.

KISS FOR RECRUIT

Something extra, a kiss from the admiral, came to 22-year-old Katherine Muse when she was sworn in as a Navy recruit Monday in Omaha. The official in charge was her father, Rear Adm. George Muse, commander of the Naval Reserve Training Command. A recent graduate of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pa., Miss Muse will be on leave until she reports to Wave officers' candidate school at Newport, R.I., in about four months.

Stutterers Anonymous Designed To Provide Chance For Self-Help

The founder of the newly organized Stutterers Anonymous said Monday he hopes the organization can give stutterers an "opportunity for self-help."

Oscar Blomstedt said the organization is not intended as a therapy group, but he noted that he is intimately familiar with the problems of stutters since he has stuttered himself since he was 12.

The first meeting of the organization was held Monday night.

Opportunity

"It's just to give people an opportunity for self-help," he said. "I would surely hope that more people will feel free to take advantage of this group. It is intended for their benefit."

"A stutterer withdraws and gets a negative attitude about himself," Blomstedt explained. "He needs to be drawn out of his shell. He is sensitive about his condition."

Consequently, he emphasized that "this is a group in which persons need not feel they must prove themselves in any way."

At future meetings, he said, the group may invite observers, listen to invited speakers, or elect officers. "It will be up to the group."

Is Sensitive

Blomstedt admitted that he is sensitive about his stuttering, but added, "Just this last week I've convinced myself that people would rather hear me hesitate than stutter. So now I try to hesitate and it works for me."

"I've stuttered badly much of my life," he said, "but now I feel I'm recovering."

Blomstedt received an M.S. from the University of Nebraska in May and now is employed as a public health engineer with the State Department of Health.

Monday night was devoted to orientation. Blomstedt hopes that at future meetings members will feel free to sing, read, act, or do whatever they want to do, in order to build their confidence. The meetings are closed to ensure that the members are surrounded by a comfortable atmosphere.

The group will meet every Monday, he said. "We can each do our own thing and then if it works for us, maybe it will give others at the meeting confidence so they'll try it too."

Korea, Germany Sign

Seoul (UPI) — South Korea and West Germany have signed an agreement providing a $17.5 million package loan to Korean industrial development projects. It marked the official resumption of Germany's economic assistance to South Korea which was suspended two years ago when 12 South Korean residents in West Germany were brought back to Seoul for trial on spy charges.

Highway Relocation Backed

A proposal to relocate Neb. 129 between Talmage and Burr from its present route five miles to the north gained favorable reaction Monday from the State Highway Advisory Commission.

However, the commission deferred further action until its July meeting pending a study of the proposed relocation by the Department of Roads.

William Brandt, a Unadilla attorney representing a delegation from the area, told the commisson relocation of the 16-mile stretch would serve 800 more people and five communities as compared with its present route.

A spokesman for the Otoe County Commissioners said the county favors the move and would take over maintenance of the present Neb. 129 route as a graveled road if the highway were relocated.

In another hearing, Cass County Commissioner Grant Roberts asked the commission to consider adding to the state system a highway between the Greenwood interchange east to Neb. 50 and from the intercahnge south to Alvo.

The commission set for July 30 hearing proposed improvement of the Ave. B and 20th Street intersection in Scottsbluff.

New Trial Motion Filed In Alvarez Case

Attorneys for condemned slayer Thomas Alvarez filed a motion in Lancaster District Court Monday for a new trial and asked the court to set aside and vacate the June 13 order denying Alvarez relief under post-conviction proceedings.

In the motion, defense counsel Richard Goos listed 17 alleged errors made by the court as grounds for a new trial.

According to allegations in the motion, the court's denial, overrule and dismissal of the motion to vacate and set aside Alvarez's death sentence was contrary to law, contrary to evidence and not supported by evidence.

The defendant alleges that the court erred in finding that he entered his guilty plea freely, voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently and that it was free of any improper pressures and inducements.

The motion for a new trial alleges that the court further erred in not finding the defendant's conviction and death sentence void or illegal and in finding that there was no denial or infringement of his constitutional rights.

The defendant further contends the court erred in admitting certain evidence and in denying other evidence during the hearing.

Rinquest Named Tax Commission Legal Unit Chief

The tax commissioner's office announced Monday the appointment of 27-year-old Randall A. Rinquest as chief of the office's legal division.

He will assume the post July 16, succeeding Delmar L. Rasmussen, who is resigning to become executive secretary to the League of Nebraska Municipalities on that date.

Rinquest received his B.A. degree cum laude in 1963 from Doane College in Crete, and received his law degree from the University of Nebraska in 1966. He has been employed by the tax commissioner's office since that time.

He also has attended American University in Washington, D.C., is a native of Denver and graduate of Lakewood (Colo.) high school.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, PTA notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Voc-Tech School For Lincoln Said 'Important'

Representatives from a dozen businesses and industries in Lincoln generally agreed Monday that a vocational-technical school located in Lincoln is an "important issue" and should be pursued in the Nebraska Legislature.

However, they also strongly supported continuation and improvement of the Milford technical school in any statewide plan for vocational education.

The Lincoln businessmen met with Lincoln school officials in an informal session to dsicuss the implications of certain amendments to LB979, which provides for a comprehensive community college system in the state.

The bill was reported out of the Education Committee with Lincoln and Lancaster County assigned to a 17-county area extending from Boone and Nance Counties in the north and west to Richardson County in the south.

Lincoln school officials now favor a division of the state in which Lancaster County would comprise an area of its own, it was reported. The original bill, which the school board had favored, would have placed Loncoln in a six-county area.

The "problem is politics," one of the businessmen emphasized, indicating that he would be willing to work independently or in an organized effort to seek support for amendments which would be advantageous to Lincoln.

No action was taken at the meeting, which Supt. John Prasch described as informational for the business and industrial community as well as for the school system in determining what course of action the district should pursue.

Woman Charged In Robbery Try

A Missouri woman Monday was charged in Lancaster County Court with assault with intent to rob in connection with an attempted robbery Sunday night at the Harbor Service Station at West O and Capital Beach Blvd.

Mary Dell Hamby, 33, of Salem Mo., was specifically charged with assaulting with intent to rob Stephen Gorka Jr., who was attending the station.

Judge Ralph Slocum set preliminary hearing for July 9 and bond was set at $3,000.

According to police the defendant followed Gorka into the station after purchasing gas and pointed a pistol at him and demanded money.

When Gorka reportedly told her that there was a police cruiser parked behind a building across the street, the woman ran out of the station, jumped in her car and drove away.
